THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXI. ATLANTA, GEORGIA, TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 23, 1889. PRICE FIVE CENTS

INTO OKLAHOMA,

The Boomers Scrambling For Their Claims.

THE START MADE ACROSS THE BOUNDARY

The Woods Full of People and the Prairies Crowded.

THE SCENES OF THE DAY DESCRIBED

A Ride by Rail Through the Promised Land.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kansas, April 22.—[Special Telegraphic Correspondence of The Constitution.]—Few of the thousands of seekers of something for nothing, who have used this city as their last halting place prior to making the rush into Oklahoma, went to bed last night.

They spent the night on the street, at the depot, and in and out of the hotel lobbies, and no one can estimate how many more did the same. Yesterday's influx of visitors was enormous, and was kept up not only till, midnight, but right along into the small hours of the morning. The regular trains had to run in sections, each section with three or four times as many cars as usual, and this extra accommodation has not sufficed. The aisles have been crowded to excess, and the suffering of the cooped up soldiers and boomers must have been great. Fortunately there were very few women in the crowds. The car platforms and the steps were also blocked right up with determined fellows,

WHO CARED NOTHING FOR RAILROAD REGULATIONS,

but had come to get through, and meant to. The railroad men drew the line at riding on the car roofs, and removed quite a number of men at different points, but despite this vigilance, several managed to get upon the roofs and stay there. The late trains on all three roads were exceptionally full, and many who came in on the Santa Fe insisted on moving ahead. A train man who arrived here at 3 a. m. on a special from the south, said that

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE WERE ON THE LINE,

and that they were not entirely controlled by the military. The reason of this is that Captain Hayes has been compelled to go up to the Ponca bridge, over the Salt Fork. The railroad people have allowed timber to be torn up from the platform at the station, and with this the spaces between the ties have been bridged over. A rough approach was made and wagons were allowed to pass over the railroad bridge. Some of the horses take to this improvised bridge pretty readily, but my informant describes trouble with nervous teams as very great. In many instances the horses had to be unhitched, the wagons dragged and pushed across by hand, and the horses forced to SWIM AT THE SWOLLEN FORD.

It is estimated that the block will continue at this point all day tomorrow, as the heavy railroad traffic will seriously incommode the boomers.

It seems, too, that troubles crowd on this opening. This is just the time of year when the great cattlemen on the Cherokee strip get into the bulk of t heir stock of Texas steers. Cattle trains have been delayed and sidetracked and hindered at every point in consequence of the great traffic south. It is apparently impossible to get them to the stock yards quick enough, and the animals are from want of food. To some extent they can be watered, but as they are expected to live on the young grass, there is very little fodder on hand, and they cannot be fed on the cars. The cattlemen talk of suing the railroad company, which has, ever since the rush began, done efficient work in the way of handling freight and passenger traffic from the north and east. The railroad man also spoke of the serious condition of affairs at Purcell, where and from which point serious trouble is confidently anticipated. He showed me copies of two dodgers, which he had preserved as curiosities. One was headed "A Warning!" and was signed "Many Citizens." It warns visitors against buying town lots in an imaginary town supposed to exist on the north bank of the Canadian. The reply dodger was not signed, but contained a threat that any one attempting to settle on the lands selected for the town referred to would be driven off without any courtesy being extended. The latter document was surrounded by a black border, and was headed "A Fair Warning." It stated that the Oklahoma legion, at its last meeting, had made arrangements to hold its own, and used the words,

DYING IN LARGE NUMBERS

NOTICES ARE BEING SENT OUT,

"DEATH TO CLAIM JUMPERS

and townsite sharks."

There are about 3,000 boomers and toughs in Purcell, mostly from Texas, well armed and crazy with liquor. Pistol firing on the streets is quite usual, and several wounds have been inflicted with knives. As an instance of the spirit actuating the crowd at Purcell, my informant referred to the passage through yesterday of fifty colored men on their way to the Texas mines, and accompanied by their families. The car containing these were surrounded, the occupants hooted, and a shot fired over the roof. The at Purcell are also very numerous, and unless they are guarded trouble must positively result.

A boomer's wagon passed through Arkansas City at early dawn. The driver was Ernest Larner, who said he had left a little farm in southwest Missouri to try and get a better place than the one he rented, but the trouble experienced in crossing the strip had discouraged him, and he was going back. He had no one with him, having left the folks at home, and he felt he would be out-distanced in the race if he kept on single-handed. This is the opinion of a good many men who have stopped off here by train, and who propose to get back at once. Among the men stumbled across early in the morning was Captain Geo. C. Cooper, of Emporia, Kansas, quite

A NOTED BOOMER CHARACTER.

He is an original Payne man, and is practically taking Payne's place. He is the head of Emporia Colony No. 2, which, despite its name, is not by any means a purely local concern, as many of its members live in Kansas City, and even further away. Captain Cooper with the secretary of the colony, is the advance guard. The actual number of men following them is 400. These men know the country well, and have every coveted lot marked out. The captain refused to talk much. He thinks there are than any one imagines, and that long before the first of the lawful settlers arrive, most of the best claims will be occupied, but the appearance of the Oklahoma soil is so desirable that he has confidence in his colony's selection being left undisturbed. Captain Cooper is a perfect gentleman and his only arms are a spade, a shovel, a pick and a hatchet. His colony is well fixed for money and will, by lawful means, secure the removal of any squatters who have violated the conditions of the opening proclamation.

THE MOST REMARKABLE FEATURES of the night's events were to be seen on the vacant land just west of the Santa Fe depot. This gradually tends toward the town, and is eminently adapted for camping. The scarcity of water kept the boomers off it. During the last few days, however, hundreds of small tents have been pitched. They are occupied by men who profess to be land attorneys, colony agents, etc. The general impression created by them is not favorable. All night they were breaking camp, and there were not twenty tents by this morning where there were over 150 yesterday. The activity, otherwise, of the men was remarkable, and their eagerness to trade with strangers was greater. Most of the tents were lighted up all night, and the singular sights on the canvass were thus made very distinct. At the last the men broke camp and packed up their belongings. The scene rapidly changed, and by daybreak the vacant blocks had well nigh resumed their wonted appearance.

THE TRAINS READY.

The Mighty Rush for the Front—Scenes and Incidents of the Start.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., April 22.—[Special Telegraphic Correspondence Constitution.]—By this time

THE TRAINS AT THE DEPOT

had been got well into shape for the expected exodus, Mr. Avery Turner, superintendent of this division of the Santa Fe, personally superintended the labor of marshalling the freight cars into shape, to be made up into trains, which are to follow close after the passenger trains. This work is the more necessary because of the immense army of people going to Guthrie, and who will be without substantial food until the arrival of freight. The depot was crowded all night, and the sale of tickets kept on steadily, nine-tenths of those issued being to Guthrie and most of the balance to Arthur. This latter station is just over the line, and as all trains will stop before leaving the Cherokee strip, the holders of tickets to Arthur propose to jump off at the line. The platforms at both the old and new depot were thronged and slept, or at least lay down on the top of box cars, baggage trucks and on the bare ground. Others better prepared, spread their blankets, used their grips and parcels for a pillow, and braved the elements. But the noise was so great that it is doubtful if they slept. Every one seemed to be talking, and there was a perfect bedlam; but

MANY HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE

THE GRAND RUSH COMMENCED

at about six, when the people who had slept up town joined their less fortunate brethren. Early breakfasts were the rule at the hotels and restaurants, and the streets leading down the slope to the depot were thronged with men, all traveling in one direction, but very differently equipped; some carried absolutely nothing in their hands, evidently thinking they could go through better for not being handicapped by weights. Very many had blankets, several had grips, and some men were so loaded down with implements that if they had any idea of taking part in

THE MIGHTY FOOT RACE

they probably abandoned it in the course of a few hours. But a marked characteristic of the crowd was the great number of spades and axes carried. An old, experienced miner who resides here, and is not troubled with Oklahoma fever, said, as he watched the multitude of spades on men's shoulders, that he had never seen anything to approach the spectacle, though he had been in two California rushes. Of guns there were quite a number, but the persistent rumors as to disarming every one entering the territory, no doubt led to several being left behind. In some instances a spade and an ax were tied together and swung across the shoulder, and as these people reached the depot they added to the already enormous crowd, and discommoded the railroad hands to an extent which taxed patience to the utmost. Several and more or less hurt. The company's arrangement to prevent a general rush to one train was to so arrange matters that no one could know which train could pass first, and the secret has been admirably kept. The newspaper correspondents had, by prior arrangements, all met and were waiting for the promised signal to guide them to their car o the first train. To avoid a rush by the crowd, half a baggage car was arranged for the party, and in this over fifty individuals had the privilege of a stand-up seat to Guthrie, eighty miles distant.

MEN WERE KNOCKED DOWN

CROSSING THE STRIP.

The Queer Incidents on Reaching the Coveted Spot.

GUTHRIE, I. T., April 22.—[Special Telegraphic Correspondence Constitution.]—It had become generally known among the members of the surging crowds at Arkansas City, that the press car would be attached to the first train, and the moment the door was opened a wild rush was made to it, and it was hard work for the actual correspondents to get aboard. The only artist among the passengers was from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He took sketches of some of the remarkable scenes witnessed. Only one Chicago paper was represented, but there were reporters from New York, Boston, Pittsburg, Atlanta, and other points. Captain George Cooper, the celebrated boomer, had been promised the honor of

PULLING OUT THE FIRST TRAIN

with engine No. 267, and the lucky man was assisted by Harry F. Livingston, who runs the engine regularly. His fireman was B. T. Rogers, and the conductor was B. C. Peck. The locomotive was attached to the press car and then rapidly switched on to one of the side trains in waiting. Then the trip south commenced, amid

SHOUTING AND CHEERING.

There could not have been less than 5,000 men who had failed to secure seats, although a score of flat cars had been fitted up with plank seats, which were crowded with eager boomers. As the first train pulled out it was at once besieged, and many succeeded in clamoring upon the platforms and steps. Others still more venturesome, had mounted the side tracked freight cars, from whose roofs they sprang on to the top of the baggage cars attached to the passenger train. Wonderful to relate, none of them got hurt. Two men got on the cow-catcher of the locomotive, but had to be removed. On a later train, however, a man rode the whole journey of eighty-nine miles

ON THE COW-CATCHER.

After the train had got clear of the yard limits, a young fellow made a rush at the press baggage car, and it was thought he was run down, but he had succeeded in swinging himself upon the truck, on which he rode 28 miles without getting hurt. There were only two ladies on the train. Their names were Brita Hult, of Locust street, Topeka, and Miss Nellyse, of the same town.

Each had a light boomer's outfit and expressed confidence in the gallantry of the men to enable them to locate claims. Among the other passengers were 180 members of the Arkansas City Old Soldiers' colony, under command of Captain Thomas Hicks and C. W. Holden. These rode to Seward and then to the land they desire, and where they propose to start a Grand Army post and something in the way of a town. The conductor collected 1,024 tickets on this train. The road runs nearly due south to the state line. Except that there were large numbers of spectators on the lookout, there was no incident of special interest between the time the mighty shout went up at the depot and the arrival at Chilocco,

TRAMPED SIX MILES

JUST INSIDE THE INDIAN TERRITORY.

Here there were several inmates of the Indian training school on the prairie. The creek was crossed and the train proceeded quite steadily along, never getting up anything of a speed. Cattle in large herds were observed to be feeding on the prairie on both sides, and the general appearance of the country was very pleasing. The next depot passed was Willow Springs, and twelve miles further Ponca was reached. The smell caused by was very offensive, and a large number of carcasses could be seen lying around. Near here were large numbers of Indians, who were crowding about the agency and who viewed the heavily loaded trains with strange and rather scared looks. A mile further and the bridge over Salt Fork was reached. This is the means whereby many boomers got safely over the fork. Its appearance was very peculiar the construction of a wagon road of lumber across it having materially changed the original idea of architecture. Only five boomers' wagons were waiting on the north side of the fork, and these had evidently abandoned the idea of completing the journey. One wagon without horses was pointed out as belonging to a boomer whose team had been drowned.

A brief stoppage of the train enabled the boys to get the passenger on the track into the car. He was greeted with good-humored banter. A dozen men offered him and as many flasks of best Kansas whisky were placed at his disposal. The young fellow's name was Harvey Sadler. From Ponca to Red Rock the track runs for quite a distance in a cutting, the sides of which, like the banks and bed of the Salt Fork, are of an almost bright red. Past Red Rock, a singularly appropriate name for a station in such a locality, the bluffs increase in number. The cuttings are deep and the grade very steep. The train made poor progress up it, and as it did so, the gradual falling off in the quality of the soil was noticed. The northern and central portion of the Cherokee strip is absolutely level and abounding in evidence of fertility. Nearer there is more timber and the grass is less rich, and plentiful but all the strip is good for farming. The enormous bunches of cattle presented a grand spectacle, but the number of dead animals seemed very large. At one place there must have been at least 200 carcasses lying close together. At Red Fork station, twenty-five miles from the line, a halt had to be called, as the cattle train was blocking the road ahead. In less than five minutes the second train caught up and halted but a score of yards behind. It was now after 11, and all hope of reaching the line by noon was abandoned, though so good time was made subsequently that the boomers became more cheerful again. The train on starting passed the long cattle train unloading at the stock yards. In nearly every car there were dead and dying steers. At least one hundred carcasses had been dragged out. Every aperture in the baggage car had to be closed to exclude as much as possible the unbearable stench. The train had now got well up with the rear guard of the boomers in the wagons. These were making the very best of their chance, and at a lively gait. The land continued to get more and more rough and hilly, and scrub oak got more general.

A SHARE OF THEIR LUNCH,

ONE VAST PRAIRIE.

Precisely at noon the train passed a barbed wire fence, running east, and which many supposed to be the northern boundary of Oklahoma.

The boomers had also taken a similar view, for as the advance was made south, camps and tents were seen in every direction. Right in a pleasant hollow, with a miniature creek flowing through it, a wagon was standing with every evidence of the owner's idea that he had reached the promised land. The horses were tethered, the man was digging a little branch that might have been either a dividing line or a fire guard. The wife was busy cooking. It was evident these good people thought they had slipped into Oklahoma unseen, and were safe. Close by on high ground, two men were holding down the quarter section in true military style. The morning was bright and the sun was intensely hot, its rays reflecting on the well polished barrels of the Winchesters held by each. Fifty wagons or more were making good time. A mile further along, and after a brief interview, the train pulled up and took on board Lieutenant Forster, who had been on guard at this point with company H of the G. T. cavalry. He reported that all was quiet, and that he had held back all on his ground, one hundred yards further on. At 12:15 precisely there was a loud whistle from the engine, answered by a shout from the train, and we were

IN OKLAHOMA AT LAST.

Before the train had crossed the line fifty yards, a man sprang off, regardless of the danger. He fell pretty heavily, but was on his feet in a few seconds, collected his baggage, which he had thrown out ahead, and was turning sods before the train was out of sight. For quite a little distance, perhaps half a mile, no other settlement was noted. Horsemen were seen in the distance and wagons were also pressing on towards the better land further south. On the summit of the ridge, a little to the east, two horsemen were seen racing and to their utmost. A little further south was a man who had just alighted from the mule which was standing by him, and whose back he was about unloading. He had selected a pleasant nook, skirted by trees. Further down to the west a colony of boomers had settled, and their wagons were so close that there could be scarcely half the coveted 160 acres for each. So far it was just possible that every boomer seen had waited until 12 o'clock before he crossed the line, but now came in view. They sprang out of the woods on every side, and it was evident from the appearance of some of them that they had been hiding for weeks. It was a strange and quite an unprecedented sight. Men stood on the open prairie with an ax or a spade in hand, and an aspect of proprietorship which was unmistakable. Other men were urging their horses forward by every means in their power, and straining every nerve to reach the desired spot. One horse was tearing along at full speed with its saddle empty. It seemed imbued with the spirit of the occasion, and was pulling double at every stride. A four-horse wagon was being hurried along with great rapidity. One occupant of it had a banner aloft and others were shouting and yelling vigorously. No attempt was made to pick a good track, and the wagon was dashed over the ground in utter recklessness. At Alfred, the first station inside Oklahoma, as many as fifty men left the train and hurried off with their traps to get possession of the spots they considered the best. The utter failure of the arrangement to keep out boomers until after high noon was made apparent at this point. Our train had been running at high speed, and was the first train to cross the line since Sunday evening, yet there was

URGING THEIR STEEDS

SQUATTERS PURE AND SIMPLE

RACING AS THOUGH FOR LIFE,

A DOSEN TENTS PITCHED

around the depot, and as far as the eye could reach every available quarter section had been located. After leaving Arthur the boomers could be seen all along the line, and in the far distance, some walking, some riding and some peacefully squatting. There could be no pretense that any of these had obeyed the law, and the immense number who had eluded the vigilance of the military is a scandal. The officers have kept on announcing all along that there were no boomers in the country, that all newspaper reports to the contrary were false, and that the guard was ample to keep out all persistent ones, yet a conservative estimate places the number of squatters detected from the train between the line and Guthrie at 500. Considering that the land passed through was of a quite poor character, far below the average of Oklahoma, this points to the conclusion that there must have been nearly to take up all the best claims before any law-abiding boomers had crossed into it. When the word to advance was given at the north line the boomers started forward at various rates of speed. All who desired to locate anywhere near the track in the north end of the territory found themselves forestalled. Some turned back in disgust, and others pushed further on into the interior.

But, for the absolute contempt of the president's reminder of the dangers of premature occupation,

GUTHRIE TAKES THE ABSOLUTE LEAD.

It could not be legally reached by road in advance of the train, yet when the town site came in view, it was litterally covered with lot claimants. Where they had sprung from no one can tell, but the fact remains that while on Sunday night the embryo town was occupied only by soldiers and deputy marshals and government and railroads officials, at 1:30 today 500 lots had been staked out and fifty-three tents erected.

The location is well suited for a town. The railroad runs along a valley, on the west of which is a creek with considerable timber, which forms a picturesque background to the depot. This is a fair-sized building with ample accommodation. The town, or town site, is on the other side of the track, and the ground slopes gradually up to the summit of a little ridge, and as gently down the other side, thus providing perfect natural drainage. At the summit, and facing west, is the land office, a frame building with two rooms, and near at hand is a temporary postoffice. Between these landmarks and the depot there was, when the train came in sight yesterday, quite a crowd of people among whom the soldiers were freely mingling. What happened as the train began to slacken

BEGGARS ALL DESCRIPTION.

Boys, middle-aged men and old fellows threw themselves off the platforms and commenced a wild rush up the hill towards the land office and east of the town, they fell upon each other, scrambled to their feet, and made off, some carrying their grips and others dropping everything in the eagerness of the chase. As the train went on towards the depot the passengers kept jumping off, and, as all had the same objective points, there were a series of lines of runners, all straining to reach the same point.

No rush at a race meeting or festival could be compared to it.

THE TOWN LOT CRAZE

seemed to lend speed even to cripples. A man with a wooden leg was among the first to make the dangerous jump, and he held his own in the race up the hill, coming in well among the first rank. An old gentleman who must have weighed 250, also made fair time. He had a stout pole with him, and by a series of hops and jumps, traveled well, but the hill was too much for him and he was outdistanced. Not a passenger by this first train went past Guthrie, so that the population of the new city was increased by this rush to the extent of nearly 1,000. All the roads seemed to lead to the land office, at which a line of waiters over one hundred yards long, was already formed. For a second the runners paused. Then they commenced

A WILD TEAR OUT EAST,

and each man, as he found an unclaimed lot, proceeded to stake it out and hold it down. The process of securing the lots, as in general adoption, is simple in the extreme. First of all a stake is driven in the ground with or without a placard placed, for the name of the claimant. Then the new owner paces off the ground he proposes to occupy for a residence or business house. There is at least a charm of variety about the laying out of Guthrie. Some people contented themselves with twenty-five feet front, while others took forty and fifty, but most of the claimants had a fair idea of where the streets ought to be and left the necessary space for them. After determining the location of the corners of the lots, some pr udent claimants took the additional precaution of to denote the street line. Others placed stakes or flags at the corners. Others again turned a sod, or dug a hole, the idea being that any work being done on the lot secured it. By the time the men on the train had selected his lot, the town site had extended away beyond the half section reserved, and long before the majority had quit running No. 2 pulled in, as heavily loaded as its predecessor. The same process was carried on to the letter. Passengers jumped and rolled off while the train was moving, and rushed madly after the fast retreating crowd like sheep. They followed the lead given them, and when they ascertained that they had been forestalled, they went cheerfully forward on the prairie and staked out their lots.

One man, evidently with a view to planting out an addition, ran a little ahead, and announced his intention of holding the entire quarter section which being beyond the town site reservation, was open for homesteading in the ordinary manner. No one heeded him. The process of

"LOT SEIZING WENT ON"

and after a little while the ambitious one gave in and contented himself with one lot. Among those hurrying up the hill, were the two ladies who succeeded in securing a claim, and will hold it, provided the government will allow a half a dozen sections to be reserved for the town site, as they are located outside the reservation. These ladies are from California, and their names are Louisa and Amelia Jennings. There was a considerable interval before another train arrived, but the third and fourth came in close together, discharging its cargo of passengers to add to the astounding crush. The limits of the city kept on increasing, and by the time the fifth and sixth train unloaded the city extended far away into the distance. Altogether ten trains got in before three o'clock, and making due allowance for those that went on to Oklahoma City, there must have been at least three hours after the territory was legally open for settlement. It was wonderful the manner in which disputes among the new comers were settled in this early part of the proceedings. Sometimes half a dozen men would pounce on a lot simultaneously, or nearly so. Each would commence to stake out, but after a little while a general agreement would be come to, every applicant but one would rush off and secure an undisputed lot. There has been so far no unpleasantness of any kind. The number of soldiers present is large enough o insure order, and the following

SIX THOUSAND PEOPLE IN GUTHRIE

OFFICIAL NOTICE HAS HAD GOOD EFFECT:

"General Merritt, in command of the military department of which this territory constitutes part, wishes all law-abiding people to know that United States troops are here (1) for the protection of government property and the United States mails; (2) to guard the people from lawlessness and disorder. He desires to impress on the settlers the necessity of conducting their affairs in a quiet and orderly manner, deferring to the courts the settlement of all controversies and conflicting claims. It is hoped that wise counsels and due respect for the law will prevail, without the necessity of invoking its power, civil or military, which is ample for all purposes of protection to law-abiding settlers and for the due control of those who seek to take the law into their own hands."

Occasionally two determined minds would clash, leading to temporary discomfort, but a little firmness on the part of the soldiers speedily nipped all disputes in the bud.

One man found that he had lost his pocket-book, and complained to the officer in charge.

"Well," was the reply, "if it has been stolen and you can prove it, point out the thief, and we will make a terrible example of it."

THE VERY LATEST.

Three Men Murdered Who Had Taken Claims.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., April 23.—[Special.] A special received from Guthrie by the Traveler at 1:10 this morning, says that three men who took claims there yesterday were foully murdered about 5 o'clock by claim jumpers. The name of their assailants and the victims could not be learned.

A vigilance committee are now scouring the country in search of the miscreants, who, it is said, will be summarily dealt with if caught.

BEFORE THE RUSH.

High Prices Paid for Fleet Horses—Trouble Between Site Companies.

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—Special dispatches from the Oklahoma country say that everybody is on qui vive to make the grand rush across the line to the land of Canaan at noon today. Five hundred dollars was yesterday offered and accepted for a fleet horse at Purcell. The horse was purchased by Tom Harton, a man who expects to reach a claim now proposed to be taken up by a town site company, which he expects to build, across the river, a city which will, in the future, rival Purcell.

As many fleet horses are being brought in from Texas and Kansas

THE RACE WILL BE MOST EXCITING

as they fly across the country—the goal a stake, the prize a claim. There is as much, if not more, struggling for town sites as for sections. It is said thirty-two town companies are going for Guthrie; about that number for Oklahoma City, and about twenty for King Fisher, while there are applicants for sites on almost every section. This makes the average settler swear. The trouble between the town site companies promises to be as dangerous as among claim hunters. There has also been brewing for the last day or two animosity between the northern fellows and Texans especially, including some colonies from other states. Once within the strip, men, either on foot or in wagons, were to be seen continually going southward. There were no soldiers or officials of any kind to prevent their entering the country. Some were encamped on the banks of the streams. The women were cooking meals and the men were shooting at either marks or game.

A party of capitalists of San Francisco sent their agent, George W. Perkins, to find a site for a town they will build and call 'Frisco. Perkins and his party stood upon the rear platform after leaving Purcell, and just after the Canadian river was crossed they leaped off and concealed themselves in the bushes. The chances are that the situation of 'Frisco will be near this bridge. At Guthrie there are in preparation and agitation the same number and variety of town site schemes, and on account of the present prominence of the place as a land office, the will be intense.

Troops are being sent as rapidly as possible into the country, and today there were on its borders fourteen companies of infantry and twenty troops of cavalry.

CAPITALISTS IN DISGUISE.

Last night there arrived at Oklahoma City a queer looking crowd bearing deputy marshals' papers, thus entitling them to enter the country. There were seven in all in the party. One man was about seventy years old. He wore a fine broadcloth suit of clothes, and carried a gold-headed cane. There was not one in the party who had ever made an arrest, and it was stated that the aggregate capital of the crowd was over $2,000,000. They rode down on a Pacific car and alighting from the train showed their commissions as deputy marshals, properly signed and attested, and so the soldiers, much against their will, were compelled to permit them to remain. Their evident intention is to form some town site. It is thought that there are over thirty "deputies" in and about Oklahoma, who, at noon, will turn in their resignations and accept it all by themselves, each individually, and turn private citizens. They will then take claims.

MAKING THEM PAY THEIR WAY.

"Few persons know," said an old boomer who was encamped on the Oklahoma line, "what dangers I have gone through to reach here. My party had a cowboy guide, and when we came to Chickasaw we were compelled to pay a man $450 to swim the stream and bring us a little boat in which we could cross, and we then pulled our rig and swam our teams. The same thing had to be done at Salt Fork. We gave our guide $100, and if he gets us well located he gets $150." Another party paid their guide $250.

A scheme has just developed, the magnitude of which for bold conception and the daring character of the men engaged in it, makes it one of great importance. It is every day becoming more apparent that the lands of Oklahoma will be insufficient for the people who be here to claim it. As a consequence there have been organized bands or companies, the members of which are

SWORN TO PROTECT THEIR FELLOWS.

The leaders of the companies have agreed that if any considerable portion of them fail to get into Oklahoma, they will league together and take possession of the Cherokee strip. Two-thirds even of these organized men will be left, and in a week from today they will have 10,000 determined men, desperate from the failure of cherished plans, driving stock out of the strip and holding down the claims. The hope of the men who have this desperate enterprise is to have so many people in the strip in a short time it will be thought better to leave them than attempt to drive them out.

Arkansas City is the headquarters of the engineers of the scheme, but auxiliaries are located along the line and the rush will be simultaneous at all points. Officers fear this and will endeavor to hurry a patrol for the strip from Oklahoma to anticipate and thus prevent the rush expected.

It is well known that such a scheme has been talked of by Colonel Cole and other Oklahoma agitators, and the present time they find most opportune to make their advance.

CROWDING THE CARS.

Fifteen Coaches, Full of Boomers, Arrive at Wichita.

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—The Republic's Wichita, Kas., special says: The first train south of Santa Fe, consisting of fifteen coaches, arrived yesterday, and there was no standing room in the coaches. People filled the spaces between the cars and clung to the steps. One enterprising boomer rode on the cow-catcher. The crowd cheered him as the train entered the depot. There were about 1,400 people on the train. Arrivals yesterday numbered at least 5,000. Of this number one-third went south to reach the line of Oklahoma, in order to be ready for the word "go." Others went to Purcell. Railroad officials are greatly worried over the prospects of moving so many people. The side tracks are filled with flats, cattle cars and a gravel train also in the collection, none of which will be below the demand. Everything on wheels will be utilized if necessary.

THIEVES AT WORK.

Thieves are busily at word on the trains and many a poor boomer has been fleeced of his all. There are no less than fifty professional thieves under surveillance by detective—among them "Crooked Legged Baker," who did an active business in the "lightning change act" in Pennsylvania in 1885. The mayor of Arkansas City issued a proclamation permitting stores to be kept open yesterday for the convenience of boomers. They were well patronized.

A disturbance took place at Purcell between rival land speculators and their adherents, in which revolvers and Winchesters were fired; freely, however, without any serious result.

DANGEROUS STREAMS.

Rains Swell the Creeks and Several Boomers are Drowned.

ARKANSAS CITY, April 22.—Saturday night there was a continuous line of camp fires from Wharton, the last station in the Cherokee strip, to Arkansas City. There were fewer fires along the border line of the promised land than would have been expected. Comparatively few of the wagon men reached the Oklahoma line until last night and this morning. Salt Fork creek, which winds through the strip and on the banks of which the Ponca reservation is situated, caused the settlers much delay. The rains had made it so high that fording was dangerous and only a few were foolhardy enough to venture it.

Captain Hayes and his company, who escorted the settlers to the border, rendered them most valuable service. He induced the Santa Fe road to permit him to lay planks beside and between the tracks of the railroad bridge and get emigrants over. A soldier with a red flag half a mile from the east end of the bridge, prevented any trains from approaching until the bridge was clear. In spite of the precautions, a woman and two children and a number of cattle were drowned at the bridge. Captain Hayes's good work at the Salt Fork bridge kept him and his troops from getting to the Oklahoma border until this morning.

A careful estimate is that within a radius of five miles from the border entrance on the Ponca trail, fully 500 men were at least a mile over the line. Wire fences divide the strip from Oklahoma. The men did not know the fence was the dividing line, or, if they did, did not heed it. No soldiers were there to dispute their entrance or to tell where the line was. Without let or hindrance a great number of people went into Oklahoma as early as Saturday night. The sky was cloudless and it was cool this morning. The crowd at the depot was larger than was expected.

PHOTOGRAPHING THE CROWD.

From the top of the dispatcher's office, a photographer took the crowd. Four trains with ten coaches each stood about ready for the start. Crowds of people walked up and down on the tops of the cars. The moment the doors were thrown open the cars were filled. A crowd followed the newspaper men, hoping to find by them which train started first. Fifty tents which were pitched about the depot were down before 6 o'clock. It is estimated that 5,000 men were at the depot awaiting transportation.

The outfits at the depot were striking. Spades and axes were the most common equipments. Before the train started the town was almost deserted. There are many women among those who go to Guthrie. The danger seemed to have been lost sight of. Many crowded under the cars until the police stopped them.

THE FIRST TRAIN.

It was 8:45 o'clock when the first train pulled out. A shout from a thousand voices announced the fact. The press car was next to the engine and eight cars were attached. There were fully fifty persons in the press car. Many had no credentials. Many freight trains have been supplied with seats to follow later. At St. Louis and San Francisco crossing, where a stop was necessary, the people besieged the first train, but guards kept them off. Just outside the city two daring men got on the air brakes under the press car. At the speed at which the train started the train will reach Guthrie late. A wagon bridge across the Arkan river was full of settlers' wagons. Two men jumped on the cow-catcher, but were put off.

AN APPEAL

To one suffering with Consumption ought not to be in vain, for it is a characteristic of this disease that hope is the last thing to die.

Just make a note of this: Dr. J. H. Schenck was confined to his bed in 1835, with

"INCURABLE CONSUMPTION"

And yet he got thoroughly well by a treatment of his own discovery and never had any return of the dread disease. The remedy used under that treatment has now been used over 50 years and is known as

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP!

JULES M. ROYALL, No. 8 Burgess Street, Providence, R. I., while perspiring at his work, over the forge, caught a heavy cold, which terminated in a well-defined case of Consumption. He was cured by Dr. Schenck's Medicines. He says: "I owe my life to you."

COL. JESSE A. ROBSON.

THE SUPREME COURT REFUSES HIM A NEW TRIAL.

He Will Have to Serve a Sentence of Two Years in the Penitentiary for Embezzlement Committed as Tax Collector of Washington County.

The supreme court handed down the decision in the case of Colonel Jesse A. Robson, ex-tax collector of Washington county yesterday.

He was convicted of embezzlement in the superior court of Washington and moved for a new trial. The motion was overruled and the case was carried to the supreme court.

That tribunal yesterday affirmed the judgment of the court below.

According to this decision, Mr. Robson will have to serve the sentence of the court below, which is two years in the penitentiary.

The penalty for embezzlement is not less than two nor more than seven years in the penitentiary.

Judge Hines sentenced Mr. Robson to two years—the lightest penalty, which, under the law, he could impose.

The charge was that when tax collector Mr. Robson appropriated to his own use the state's money, about $3,000. He put in the defense that his safe had been robbed.

The amount alleged to have been used was made good by Mr. Robson and the sureties on his bond, he having given up the bulk of his property to reimburse the state. After this he was prosecuted and convicted.

The supreme court says that "the offense of embezzlement by a public officer is not the less punishable because the sureties upon his official bond have responded to the state for his default, and he has reimbursed them for so doing, though he be not indicted until afterwards."

The decision of the supreme court concludes with these words:

"Touching the general merits of the case and the sufficiency of the evidence to warrant the verdict we content ourselves with quoting from the opinion of the able and impartial judge who presided at the trial, and whose opinion in deciding adversely on the motion for a new trial has come to us as a part of the record.

He says: 'I cannot say that the verdict is contrary to the evidence and law of the case, neither does it appear to be against the weight of the evidence. I cannot come to the conclusion that the jury was not justified in saying he was guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. The defendant made the square issue that the funds of the state in his hands as tax collector were stolen and not embezzled by him. Was the money stolen by Willie Corneal, or was it embezzled by the defendant?'

"That was the sharp clean cut issue which the defendant made with the state.

"There was no middle ground, no allegation of extravagance, or reckless expenditure or innocent appropriation of the state's money, with intent to account for it at the proper time, or failure owing to misfortune or miscalculation.

"In reply to the proposition that the money was stolen, there was evidence that the defendant paid a note of his own, with money taken from a pile in or on his desk where he was sitting at the receipt of customs taking in the taxes of the people. The jury might infer that the defendant used the state's money for this purpose. There was the evidence of several witnesses that the defendant stated he had used the state's money in buying land. There was in evidence his statement that he had used the state's money in electioneering and in living. There was his letter of the fifth of May, 1887, to the comptroller-general, in which he begged to be bridged over until October, offers to convey to that officer eighteen hundred acres of land, and pay twenty per cent interest for indulgence, plead that he would be ruined if indulgence was not granted him, and yet he does not mention the fact that the state's money was stolen.

"The defendant kept the robbery secret. From all these circumstances the jury might well infer that the theory that the money was stolen was not true in fact.

"I would have been glad to have been able to say in my conscious that the evidence failed to show the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, and thus have been in a position to grant him a new trial, but I cannot so say in good conscience."

Mr. Robson before this trouble was a very popular man in Washington county. At one time he was a prominent lawyer. He is a one-legged ex-confederate soldier, and his war record was superb.

It is said that his friendt will use their best efforts to secure a pardon or a commutation of the sentence.

A Telegram About Him.

A telegram was received yesterday by an Atlanta police officer. The telegram came from Washington county, and was signed by three gentlemen, supposed to be Mr. Robson's bondsmen. The telegram directed that Mr. Robson be shadowed carefully.

"What have you done about it?" the officer was asked last night.

"Nothing, for the simple reason that I couldn't find Mr. Robson."

"Has ——"

"I haven't any idea what he has done. He may be here in Atlanta for all I know. All I know is that I have not been able to find him."

A Successful Physician.'

In a large and lucrative practice running through a number of years, my husband, by using Swift's Spreeific, restored health to a great many people in whose cases all other remedies had proven useless. To give a list would be to write the history of stubborn maladies and remarkable and wonderful cures. I will mention the case of a young man afflicted with blood poison for five years. He was helpless for a year—was blind for some days, and his case seemed incurable—for under the usual treatment he had grown worse, until his condition was, to say the least, horrible; rheumatism came on to add to his sufferings. Dr. Love prescribed Swift's specific, and by its use the poison was gradually forced out his system, the sight restored, the rheumatism cured, and today he is a sound and healthy man. My husband regarded Swift's Specific as the best known medicine for diseases which it professed to cure. MRS. J. T. LOVE.

Come to Georgia

Is the title of a neat thirty-two-page pamphlet just issued by J. Bippus, manager of the Atlanta Real Estate exchange.

It contains valuable statistical information regarding Atlanta, its advantages as a commercial and manufacturing centre, the advantages of central and north Georgia in the way of agriculture, grazing and mining and makes a special point of our exemption from epidemics—particularly yellow fever. Mr. Bippus and his associates are northern gentlemen who come amongst us with strong indorsements and are showing their faith by their acts in helping to build up the great city of the south. They have a nicely fitted up office at No. 5 south Pryor street, and have on exhibition the finest specimens of Georgia hard woods we have ever seen. The pamphlet is especially intended for northern distribution, but is good to send to your friends in any part of the country, and we are authorized to state that if you will leave with Mr. Bippus the name of any parties you would like to have one, it will be mailed them.

Capitol Avenue Sale of Lots Continued.

On Monday, April 29th, at 2:30 p. m., we will finish the sale of lots on Capitol avenue and other streets. Night overtook us last week, leaving 58 choice lots yet to be sold on the high hill in grove just outside city limits. We have no long adjectives to use on this property, but simply invite an inspection of it, and the verdict will be "beautiful!" Remember the day and hour, and be sure to attend next Monday. Large profits have been offered since sale on lots sold last week. Sam'l W. Goode & Co.

A FRIEND'S TRIBUTE.

Remarks of Judge Hopkins at the Culberson Memorial.

One of the most touching of the tributes to the late Augustus B. Culberson was that paid by Judge J. L. Hopkins.

"In the year 1865," said Judge Hopkins, "through William Dougherty, I became acquainted with Augustus B. Culberson. Mr. Dougherty spoke very kindly and highly of him, saying that he was a perfect gentleman, a lawyer of merit, and deserved success. Through the years that followed, I knew Mr. Culberson, and many, many a time I was reminded by his conduct of what his friend Dougherty had said to me—that he was a perfect gentleman and a lawyer of merit. During all those years his life suggested no other thought. Anything to the contrary would have been a surprise.

"As a lawyer, he did not claim recognition of the full measure of his value. He was not sufficiently self-assertive. When he cultivated a particular branch of the law, his success was marked. Older lawyers will recall at once his practice in the bankruptcy courts. In those courts his practice was wide, and in bankruptcy cases he was probably the best lawyer at this bar. More recently, in the United States courts, he was a most familiar figure in connection with cases arising under the revenue laws.

"Honorable as it may be to his memory, to view him as a lawyer it is another side of his character that presses upon my mind. Dougherty's words come again to me—he was a perfect gentleman. The single word gentleness stands for the man—it suggests his image, he filled its meaning, he merits definition. In my memory he is associated with the gentle. I doubt if there be a single surviving friend, who knew him well, to whom the mention of his name does not suggest the same thought. His warm heartedness appeared all along his daily walk. His fellowmen felt it—it was genuine, it was heart-born. It was not the polish and refinement that schools of society confer, but the kindliness of his nature, and his wholesome good will that made in him the true type of a perfect gentleman.

"His delight in the beautiful manifested itself in many ways, notably in his love of flowers. He was passionately fond of flowers. He did not despise a flower that bloomed. They were in harmony with his nature. In his worship of them, his generous nature found expression and their beauty and perfume were to him sources of inexpressible pleasure. Unwilling to enjoy them alone, they were plucked for his friends. Today, as I stand here and bring him back to my mind, he seems to come with flowers in his hands, and, as he extends them, I almost hear him say what I have heard so often, "here, I brought them for you." He was accustomed to place them near me on the bench, and there from day to day and month to month as the dreary painful round was trod, his flowers were the only thing that gladdened the eye or tended to lift pressure from the heart. Earth may lose the rich, the powerful, the great, and the loss, if loss it be, can easily be repaired; but when there is withdrawn one whose nature is all kindness and gentleness, be the circle of his influence narrow or wide, within it the loss is irreparable.

"I cherish his memory. I cherish it tenderly. Others may pluck flowers and strew them along to gladden the ways of life; others may worship the beautiful and constantly search for the bright side of things, but in loyalty to his memory, my heart tells me that in all my time, I have not known the grave to close upon a more kind hearted gentleman."

MEDICAL.

That Tired Feeling

Is experienced by almost every one at this season, and many people resort to Hood's Sarsaparilla to drive away the languor and exhaustion. The blood, laden with impurities which have been accumulating for months, moves sluggishly through the veins, the mind fails to think quickly, and the body is still slower to respond. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just what is needed. It purifies, vitalizes, and enriches the blood, makes the head clear, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling, tones the nervous system, and imparts new strength and vigor to the whole body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is proven to be so vastly superior to any other sarsaparilla, or blood purifier, that one has well said: "Its health-giving effects upon the blood and entire human organism are as much more positive than the remedies of a quarter of a century ago as the steam power of to-day is in advance of the slow and laborious drudgery of years ago."

"For years I was sick every spring, but last year took Hood's Sarsaparilla and have not been sick since. G. W. SLOAN, Milton, Mass.

Nearly everybody needs a good spring medicin like Hood's Sarsaparilla to expel impurities which accumulate in the blood during the winter, keep up strength as warm weather comes on, create an appetite and promote healthy digestion. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla and you will be convinced of its peculiar merits. It is the ideal spring medicine—reliable, beneficial, pleasant to take, and gives full value for the money.

"I take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring tonic, and I recommend it to all who have that miserable, tired feeling." C. PARMELEE, 349 Bridge street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Makes the Weak Strong

"My appetite was poor, I could not sleep, had headache a great deal, pains in my back, my bowels did not move regularly. Hood's Sarsaparilla in a short time did me so much good that I feel like a new man. My pains and aches are relieved, my appetite improved. I say to others who need a good medicine, try Hood's Sarsaparilla and see." GEORGE F. JACKSON, Roxbury Station, Conn.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON

Is the bane of the human family, and SWIFT'S SPECIFIC is the remedy for that disease and its consequences.

PHYSICIANS

Have used S. S. S. in treatment of blood taint, with remarkable success. J. WILEY QUILLIAN, M.D. Easley, S. C.

I have prescribed Swift's Specific in many cases of blood taint, and it has made cures after all other remedies had failed. B. M. STRICKLAND, M.D. Cave Springs, Ga.

I have tried Swift's Specific in a very bad case of Blood Disease, and take great pleasure in saying it was a perfect success, producing a complete cure. I have also tried it in many other cases with good results. J. R. YERION, Millsap, Tex.

I have used Swift's Specific in my practice for some time, and find it to be all that the proprietors claim for it. D. M. MCKNIGHT, M.D., Magnolia, Ark.

TRADE SSS MARK

I have taken Swift's Specific for secondary blood taint, and derived great benefit. It acts much better than potash or any other remedy that I have ever used. B. F. WINGFIELD, M.D., Richmond, Va.

ATLANTA WINS AGAIN.

CHARLESTON DEFEATED THE NEW ORLEANS TEAM.

A Good Crowd Turns Out to See the Second Atlanta-Birmingham Game—The Men Do Good Work, But Nothing Like That of Saturday.

Mr. Kent, president and manager of the Birmingham team, is something of a kicker.

But he don't know it.

Leaning against the grand stand, watching his men at their work, before the game yesterday, he said:

"Hang me if I ain't been treated rotten in this town."

"How's that?" he was asked.

"Well, you know the visiting team is always allowed two men on the gate?"

"That so?"

"Yes, everywhere. I tell you I'm up in B. B., and awhile ago Whalen made a kick about it."

"That all?"

"No, I have several charges I could make but I aint no kicker, but I want my rights. Now, do you know the Atlanta management has refused to let me have the grounds to pratice on?"

Nevertheless Manager Kent's team lost the game.

The Game Begins.

Nelson dipped his head into his green cap just at three thirty, and throwing a smile towards the grand stand yelled

"Play ball."

The visitors went to the field with Tice in the box and Tuohy behind the bat. They presented the same team as on Saturday except Farrell, who was released. Lewis, a new man, who was signed Sunday, was in his place.

Sterling stepped to the plate and Tice made four attempts to give him a good ball, but he failed, and Sterling took his base. Shorty Howe got the same bag on four balls, and Sterling went to second.

Then the crowd began yelling.

The people were happy.

Craig picked up the ash and was cheered as he toed the plate.

"Now, Craig, touch it lively," cried some one.

"Yes, give us a base hit," sang out an enthusiast.

Craig made a hard effort, but hit the air and not the ball often enough to be called out on strikes.

Pender walked into the whitewashed square with the men still on first and second. The crowd yelled and Pender hunted the ball. The lick was just enough to put the ball in Lewis's hand, and Lewis threw it to the first in time to give Pender a death.

In the meantime Sterling had secured third and Howe was resting at second.

Key, the Atlanta boy, whom the management would not sign and who will appear in a Birmingham uniform today, walked up to the plate. The audience recognized him as an Atlanta boy and some one called out:

"Now, old boy, you made the first run of the season for Atlanta so live it out and bring both men in."

"Yes, clean them bases," squealed a boot black in Peters park.

Key took the ball under the chin and sent it to right for one clean base.

He began moving.

So did Sterling and Howe.

Key secured the first and both men came in.

That was two for Atlanta, and Whalen mashed a new hat.

Cline went out at first, but not until he had been cheered by the crowd because he looked like Billy Taylor.

The Atlantas went into the field and Kelly showed up in the box.

"Where's Pender?" asked the grand stand.

"Oh, he's on second," cried the score card boy.

"Then who is that in the box?"

"Oh, that's Kelly, and he's all right."

Kelly was all right. He put the ball over the plate and Mills hit it, but the hit was short and Kelly was given an assist in the official report by fielding the ball nicely and throwing Mills out at first.

Cavanaugh struck out. Muldoon got first on a wild pitch when two strikes had been recorded against him. Then he stole second.

Daily got his base on four balls and some one yelled:

"Bring in Pender, please!"

But Kelly braced up and gave Allison a ball which he tapped to Hoeneman in right and the side went out.

Then there was another yell.

Hoeneman walked in from right field with the ball which Allison had knocked still in his hand, and, picking up a bat, stepped to the plate.

"Now, you boys get on that line and do some coaching like Allison does," said Whalen.

Cline took his position near first, and Pender went to second. Hoeneman had two strikes and three balls. Then Tice put the ball right over the plate, and Hoeneman thumped it for a clean base hit.

"Yi, yi!" yelled the gang.

Murray came up and got first on balls, sending Hoeneman to second. Then Kelly faced Tice and Hoeneman tried to steal third, but was thrown out. Kelly got first on a wild pitch and Murray went to second. Sterling lined out a two-bagger and cleaned the bases.

The audience cleaned their throats yelling. Howe got his base on balls and Craig went out at first. Pender made a base hit and brought in Sterling and Howe.

There was another yell. Key went out at second in trying to make a two bagger out of a nice single, and Pender was left on third.

That was four runs in that inning for Atlanta.

Tuohy, for the visitors, flew out to Sterling in left, and Lewis struck out; Fletcher made a clean hit to center for a base, and then a quarrel ensued. It was Tice's time at bat, but Green, a new man, stepped up.

"How's that?" asked Shorty Howe, trotting in.

"Tice has been hurt and Green goes in his place," answered Allison, field captain of the Birminghams.

"Yes, he has been hurt for four runs in one inning," answered Howe, "and two in the other, but you can't change just now your pitcher nor your batter."

The umpire sustained Howe and Tice went to bat. He got first on a wild pitch when he was under two strikes.

"That's good," cried a Birmingham man.

Just then Mills went out at first and an Atlantian cried:

"Yes, and that's better."

In the fourth Birmingham added another, and in the sixth two more. In the seventh Atlanta scored three and Birmingham two.

That ended the run getting.

Here is the score:

Today's Game.

The game will be called this afternoon at half past three, and the crowd should be a big one. The teams will be:

ATLANTA	POSITION	BIRMINGHAM
Pender	Pitcher	Turner.
Hoeneman	Catcher	Tuohy.
Howe	Short stop	Allison.
Cline	1st base	Daily.
Shea	2nd base	Lewis.
Kinsley	3rd base	Key.
Sterling	Left field	Cavanaugh.
Craig	Center field	Mills.
Kelley	Right field	Fletcher.

The Atlantas will have two new men. Mike Shea, who is said to be a fine second baseman, will be in line, while Kinsley, a good man, will take Key's place.

The Birminghams will show two new faces, too—new for their ranks. Manager Kent last night signed Key, who has been covering the third for Atlanta, and has been hitting hard. Turner, the Atlanta pitcher, gave his signature to a contract with Manager Kent, too, and will be in the box today.

In speaking of his new men Manager Kent said last night:

"I think I have a jewel in Key, and was surprised when I learned this afternoon that he was not under contract with Atlanta. When I ascertained it I jumped on him quick."

"You think him a good man?"

"I certainly do. He won both games for Atlanta. On Saturday he made the first run and today his stick brought in the first two."

Diamond Dust.

The attendance yesterday was about 900.

Hon. Charles Collier witnessed the game.

Mr. Rhode Hill had a seat in the grand stand, near Judge Newman.

Lewis, the new man for Birmingham, is a great batter. He played well in the field yesterday, too. Atlanta had a chance to sign Lewis but would not do so.

Pender is a great favorite.

Whalen is working hard for the team's success.

Kent wants the earth.

Walter Brown and Steve Ryan witnessed the game yesterday from a tree top—in West End.

Mr. Stanhope Sams is quite popular with the men in the team.

A scorer's stand is badly needed. The official scorer sat on a saw log in the sun yesterday.

Cline is the best first baseman in the league.

After Tice was knocked out of the box, Dally was taken off first and put in. He worked well.

Billy Sparks and Henry Durand will go out this afternoon, chaperoned by Thad Hammond, Sr.

New Orleans Wins Again.

CHARLESTON, April 22.—[Special.]—The sea gulls made a desperate spurt today, and gave the visitors all they could do to get in the odd run. The score tells the story. The locals outfielded the visitors, but they were weak on battery work. Hurston, of New Orleans, got eight victims, while Stapleton bagged but one. The score tied in the seventh inning, and two more were played before New Orleans got in the winning run in the gloaming. The locals are playing under disadvantages, Hillery, their first baseman, being sick. Hurston did superb work in the box, and was loudly applauded. Attendance not over 1,000. Following is the score:

ATLANTA WILL GO.

The Special Party for the New York Centennial Will Undoubtedly Be Made Up.

Telegrams and inquiries are coming in rapidly, and the delegation from Georgia will be a respectable one. Ex-federal and ex-confederate soldiers and their friends will make up the pleasant party from Atlanta.

It is hoped that the ladies will be well represented, as many have already promised to go.

The industrial parade on May 1 will be a great and interesting feature, and over fifty thousand Germans will be in line that day.

Further information and the full official programme can be seen at the office of Colonel A. B. Carrier, 15 North Broad street.

THE BAPTIST CONVENTION.

Big Preparations in Marietta to Entertain the Delegates.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—The State Baptist convention that meets here on next Thursday, 25th inst., promises to be a much larger affair than the committee of arrangements expected when they began their work. It was at first thought that the number of delegates would be from 250 to 300, but the committee now think they will have to procure homes for nearly or quite 400. It is expected that a large number from Atlanta will attend the convention as the fare for round trip has been reduced to sixty cents provided they return same day. Marietta's hospitable homes will be thrown wide open to this body of good men and to the faithful ladies composing the Woman's State Missionary society which will also be in session here at same time.

FIXING THE SALARIES.

The Committee Meets at the Home of Mr. Berckmans.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—Yesterday Professor H. C. White and Hon. W. L. Peck returned home after spending the night at the country residence of Mr. P. J. Berckmans, a few miles from Augusta. With Mr Berckmans they compose the committee on organization of the experimental station, and last night arranged the schedule of salaries to other details of the management of the station. They declined to make any statement of what they had agreed upon.

A Real Mystery in Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 22.—[Special.]—A murder mystery was discovered about dark yesterday, and the officers are now investigating it. For several days a band of gypsies have encamped just outside the city limits. They broke camp this afternoon and went away, leaving one of their tents standing. Some boys went to the tent and found a dead negro inside of it. The negro's head had been split open, evidently with an ax. The dead negro has not yet been identified or the manner of his death ascertained.

Death of Judge Rozar.

EASTMAN, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—Dodge county is without an ordinary. Judge John J. Rozar died in harness yesterday afternoon. A good officer and useful citizen is gone.

Big Verdicts Against a Railroad.

ROME, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—In the case of Ann Smith vs. the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus Railroad company the jury today returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $5,000. The plaintiff's husband was killed in the wreck that occurred October 31st, 1887. Verdicts on account of that wreck obtained at this term of court aggregate $37,000.

CAPITAL CITY CLUB.

THE SIXTH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED IN ROYAL STYLE.

The Reports of the Officers Upon the Condition of the Club Were Excellent—The Various Entertainments Given and the Prominent Men Entertained Since the Club's Existence.

The Capital City club celebrated its sixth anniversary last night.

There was a large attendance of members, and much interest and enthusiasm was manifested in the proceedings. Major Livingston Mims, the president, called the club to order shortly after nine o'clock, and in a short address reviewed the condition of the club. The address of the president was listened to with interest and the prosperous condition it showed the institution to be in caused the members to congratulate each other.

Secretary McCandless's report showed in detail the condition of affairs. The club property is valued at $30,730, the furniture at $6,399, while there are only $17,400 of bonds outstanding. The total liabilities of the club are $31,572.52, while the assets are $39,679.81, showing a surplus of $8,107.29. The debt is being rapidly reduced and in a short while the institution will be entirely free of all liabilities.

There are 250 members, the personnel being fine and prominent. A large majority of the men of Atlanta who are fond of society are members, and the non-resident list includes some of the most prominent gentlemen in the state. During the past year, $9,200 was received from the members in dues and fees, while the expenses, including interest and taxes, was less this amount by $932.72, showing the club to be self-sustaining. The bar and restaurant are both self-sustaining, and the handsome profits made on them enabled the club to keep up in magnificent style these important and necessary adjuncts.

At the meeting last night much business was transacted, most of it, however, being of a private nature. Messrs. Harvey Johnson, H. B. Tompkins and W. H. Rhett, were appointed to draft resolutions upon the death of Messrs. R. H. Richards and W. H. Parsons. A committee was appointed also to investigate the propriety of opening a restaurant up stairs for ladies. The club admits ladies at monthly receptions and it is likely that before many weeks the ladies belonging to the families of members will have the entree to a restaurant exclusively their own.

The annual election for officers will take place next Monday and Tuesday, the polls being open from 12 noon to 10 o'clock p. m., Messrs. Rhett, Johnson and Berry being appointed inspectors.

Major Mims, who has been president for four years, has positively declined a re-election, but there seems to be a disposition on the part of the membership to press him into service even against his will. He has conducted affairs admirably, assisted by the governing committee, composed of Messrs. Clarence Knowles, Grant Wilkins, C. W. Crankshaw, J. T. Aorme, J. Carroll Payne, E. S. McCandless and W. P. Inman.

The Capital City club is one of the institutions of the city. It has contributed as much as any one organization to the reputation and fame of the city. Its entertainments have been known far and wide for princely hospitality and elegance. The entertainment given President Cleveland was the most elegant ever given in the south, and one of the most elegant ever given in the country. It cost ten thousand dollars. For roses alone, $2,500 was spent, and everything else was on a scale of equal magnificence. The club has entertained Presidents Cleveland and Hayes, ex-President Jefferson Davis, General W. S. Hancock, Vice-President Davis, Major McKinley, Charles Dudley Warner, and every gentleman of prominence in the south and north. The entertainment given Mr. Davis and his accomplished daughter rivaled in beauty and elegance that tendered Mr. Cleveland. One of the prettiest affairs ever given in Atlanta or the south was that in honor of Charles Dudley Warner and party.

The caterer is Mr. H. P. Adams, who has made the cusine famous. Mr. Adams was a well known hotel manager in the Adirondacks for many years, and his reputation for skill and efficiency preceded him. The supper spread last night was an evidence of his ability, consisting, as it did, of all the delicacies of the season, admirably prepared, and heartily enjoyed. He was congratulated often during the evening. The restaurant is well patronized by the members, and is the source of considerable profit.

Champagne punch was served during the evening, and after supper many interesting and agreeable speeches were made by the members. It was a source of congratulation to all that the club was never so prosperous, that the outlook was never so bright, and as the members stretched their legs under the generons mahogany of the institutron they wished the club continued success.

A Card From Mr. Barker.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: In your issue of yesterday I notice a card from J. G. Thrower relative to our litigation of last week. In the first place he states that he chastised the writer, and, if a cowardly blow with a cane upon the head of a defenseless man while seated in a chair constitutes his mode of chastisement, I will plead guilty of being chastised, for which the chastener paid $50 and costs for his privilege of so doing.

Now, it was sworn to in court by Mrs. Riemann that she received a note from Thrower to come to his office, and had that note at home. Certainly somebody is lying—deeply, maliciously lying.

Then, in the card referred to, further on, he states that Mrs. Riemann stated to him that the writer "had offered her money to co-operate with him in establishing the fact." Now I wish to ask Thrower if this statement he has made was not proven in court to be absolutely false? Then why does he make it?

Thower publishes an affidavit in which it was stated that the affidavit was made "because of her respect for him and without any solicitation on his part." If there was no solicitation, then why did Thower write the note asking her to come to his office. Now we ask Thrower if it is not true that he not only sent once, but repeatedly for her? Again regarding what he claims to be remarkable about Mrs. Riemann's statement "of how the child was found—in one case it was in a basket, in the other wrapped up in a grey shawl." That great mystery, or which he seems to insinuate as a contradiction, merely goes to show what a drowning man will resort to as he clutches at the last straw. Is not Thrower aware of the fact that a baby, especially a small, puney starved child could have beeen easily wrapped in a shawl and placed in a basket and left on one's doorstep, and still a person could swear and swear it truthfully in both cases that the child was found in a basket and in a shawl? This is easily expressed and the man is a fool to and try make such a point.

Regarding the evidence of Mrs. Riemann, we believe the lady swore to the truth and that the greater portion of the jury must have believed her from the fact that nine was for the defendant and three for Thrower, and these three we are informed by one of them was in favor of giving the plaintiff, not the great sum of ten thousand dollars, but only twenty-five cents knowing that the court costs would not be more than the judgment, hence the plaintiff would have had only fifty cents to pay? Is this not true, Thrower? You can satisfy yourself by asking any member of the jury.

Here we would like to ask you another question and that is; is it not true that you personally went to Mr. Riemann, who was working near West View cemetery and had a conversation with him just the evening before the trial? Is it not true that after that conversation, Mr. Riemann forbid his wife to answer to the summons as a witness in our behalf? Is it not true that when a gentleman of this city went to inform her that she was needed the next morning, that she stated to him that she had been out to see her husband at his work and that he had forbidden her to answer to the subpœna? Is is not true that the defendant, in company with his attorney, Mr. Ladson, went in a hack and pleaded and begged Mr. Reimann to give his consent to let his wife appear and at last that gentleman did so? Surely there has been dirty work done in this trial. Did you not testify while on the witness' stand that you had not seen the little boy for some months? Can I not prove by witnesses that you saw the child very recently? Surely the great high secretary grand juror has not forgotten his high standing as to swear falsely.

You seem to desire to cast a slur upon the character of the writer by stating that "To those who are unacquainted with this man Barker, or the life of his principal witness things may appear dark against ye for a time." Please be so kind as to make your assertions, if any, plain, so plain in fact that all map know just what you mean. Such would be honest, just and manly. Further, is it not unmanly to cast insinuations upon the character of a lady who we believe has sworn to the truth? In the prosecution you forced upon us, you have been worsted. Damaging circumstantial evidence has been brought forth in the trial, and if you sweat under the weight of the same, it is only what you have brought upon yourself. In my next week's issue of the Southern Star I will report the testimony, however, not to damage, to harm you, but as vindication of my honor from the charges made by you that I am a libeler and slanderer. Regarding the article in last Saturday's CONSTITUTION, will state I knew nothing wuatever of it until I saw it in print and suppose it was written by an unbiased reporter of that paper from the facts as he obtained them by listening to the sworn testimony. Respectfully, [..]s. D. BARKER.

GREEN LOCKETT.

THE EFFORT TO FASTEN THE WOOLFOLK TRAGEDY ON HIM.

Sensational Reports Now Afloat Regarding the Bloody Tragedy—General Macon News.

MACON, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—Just on the line of the Tom Woolfolk trial in Perry, sensational reports are finding their way into circulation.

The following rumor is abroad: Parties in the city from the Woolfolk settlement state that evidence will be produced in Perry to show that belonging to Miss Pearl Woolfolk, one of the murdered victims, a maiden of seventeen summers, and who had attended the Wesleyan Female college, had been recently found at the house of Green Lockett, a negro living on the Woolfolk plantation. This is the first intimation that a trunk with Miss Pearl's clothes had been lost or was missing from the Woolfolk house after the murder.

It will be remembered that the Woolfolk family was killed on a Friday night, preceding the Saturday on which a large neighborhood picnic was to have been held, and it was stated that the Woolfolk family had made extensive preparations to attend the picnic, and had prepared a large basket full of eatables for the picnic, but the next morning when the discovery of the terrible murder was made and its contents could be found. The defense argued that the murder was committed by some wandering tramp or negroes who had made way with the picnic goodies.

A report also in town today is that evidence will be produced at the coming trial to show that the Woolfolk basket of picnic provisions was and that a short-handled ax like that with which the family were killed was also recently found there.

What do these reports mean, and why are they sprung at the present time?

Green Lockett was a very important witness for the state at the first trial. He is the negro on whom Tom Woolfolk desired to

of the atrocious butchery. Tom went to his house and called him immediately after the murder, and Tom in his statement before the jury, said that Lockett was at his (Lockett's) house asleep, and he had to call him to arouse him. The impression created on the public mind at the first trial was, that when, after the butchery of his father's family, Woolfolk went to Green Lockett's house and told him of the murder, and tried to persuade Lockett to go to the Woolfolk house with him and investigate the matter, it was with the intention of

GETTING LOCKETT IN THE HOUSE,

and then kill him and let it appear as if Lockett had done the murder, and when Woolfolk aroused from slumber and saw Lockett he killed him, and thus would pose as the hero who slew the slayer of his father's family.

Solicitor-General Felton has no faith in the sensational stories afloat today.

TOM WOOLFOLK'S WIFE.

She is Quite Handsome, and Has Nothing to Do With Her Husband.

MACON, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—The wife of the notorious prisoner, Tom Woolfolk, who has been visiting in Americus, arrived in Macon last evening, and after spending a day or two will leave for her mother's home in Jones county. She never goes to see Woolfolk, and in fact she has had little to do with him since a day or two after her marriage, which occurred a few weeks prior to the dreadful murder.

The match was a runaway match, and they were married in a crowded East Tennessee railroad passenger car while the train was passing through Rose Hill cemetery, at Macon. She was handsome when Tom married her, but she is even fairer looking now, with superb figure, and there are no indications that she is worrying herself about her imprisoned husband. It is said that she does not apply for a divorce because she thinks Tom will hang, and the matrimonial ties will thus be parted asunder.

Shooting Off His Pistol.

ABBEVILLE, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—Sam Reynolds, a negro, charged with taking a pistol from and shooting at a drunken man in Dublin, was today arrested by Marshal Roberts and put in the guard house, but made his escape while being transferred to the jail, leaving a portion of his shirt in the officer's keeping.

MEDICAL.

A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood diseases which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I felt its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood-medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

Suggestions as to the Home.

We receive by every mail suggestions as to the proposed confederate home. It is impossible to print all, or even the bulk of these suggestions, but they are heartily appreciated, and every one is carefully filed away for the committee in charge of the work to which it refers, and for final reference to the board of directors. Suggestions are solicited by every director, because it is desirable that the fullest light shall be had before any definite action is taken.

There seems to be a general desire to enlarge the plan of the home so as to include various classes of those who suffered by the war. The public interest in this regard cannot outrun the desire of the directors themselves, and the public will rest assured that the home will be cast on the very broadest plan, to protect, and benefit the largest number of people consistent with prudence and wisdom, when the full amount of the fund is ascertained, and the probable help that the state can give is estimated.

The directors feel sure that under their plans the Georgia home will be much more liberal, and broader in its scope than any home that has yet been built, or projected, and the money will be pushed to the very uttermost in meeting the demands of every class that needs and deserves help.

The larger the sum of money raised, the better and broader will be the establishment of the home. Every dollar that is sent in will be fairly extended in broadening the provisions and capacity of the enterprise. Send in your subscriptions, therefore, with your suggestions. Both are valuable, and the practicability of the latter will very much depend on the amount of the former.

The fund for the confederate home has now gone above $40,000. It will now work its way slowly towards $50,000. Not very much will be done until Memorial Day, which is next Friday. It is believed that the subscriptions that day will put the total to $50,000. A number of young men in Atlanta have organized a central committee, and are at work on a general movement throughout the state for Memorial Day. They hope to secure good results, and will deserve the congratulations and gratitude of the public. There are thousands of citizens who intend to subscribe to this fund, but have not cared to print their names, or who were able to give only a small amount. Memorial Dey furnishes an occasion for all these, and every man, woman and child in Atlanta who can contribute anything, from five cents up, ought to be rupresented in one of the lists, or through the committee on Memorial Day.

It is to be hoped that a movement similar to that in Atlanta, or in some other shape, will be started up in every village, town and city in Georgia, and let "memorial" offerings come from every county and every community in Geoagia for this grand and noble cause.

How to Cure Warts and Other Things.

As he grows older, Mark Twain grows more philosophical. Having been ornamental heretofore, and highly so, and having provided the world with the best of its fun during the last quarter of a century, he now seems to be prepared to give it good advice, mixed with sundry recipes.

Recently there has been a story going the rounds of the newspapers to the effect that neither warts nor tattoo marks could be removed. This seems to have excited the impatience of Mr. Clemens, and he writes an open letter to the New York Sun protesting against the dictum.

He then goes on to say that when he was a small boy he had his share of warts, though whether they were the result of handling toad frogs is not stated. He had the warts, and that is enough. He tried various remedies, but finally he drove a needle through each excrescence, heated the needle red hot, cooked the warts, and the next day wiped them off with his hand. They disappeared without leaving a scar.

Mr. Clemens treated a tattoo mark in the same way, and succeeded in removing it so effectually that not even little Jean, his youngest daughter, would suspect that her father had ever placed himself under the influence of a drunken sailor in New Orleans.

This information is worth something. There are a great many young people with warts and a great many nice people with tattoo marks. All these can be removed by Mark Twain's patent remedy.

Merchant John, of Philadelphia.

We do not care to revise our opinion that Mr. John Wanamaker, if he attends to his duties in the postoffice department as closely and as cleverly as he has attended to the details of his stores, will make a first rate postmaster-general; and the country seems to need just now a first rate postmaster-general—a man who can improve the service and give the country some sort of relief from the delays and mistakes and mismanagement that have of late been vexing the people, and who also has nerve enough to compel the great railroad corporations to faithfully carry out their contracts with the government.

There is no doubt that Mr. Wanamaker is full of business, but, unfortunately, it seems to be his own private business. He had hardly warmed the postmaster-general's chair before his wicked partners and agents in Philadelphia began to send out advertisements to the country postmasters, most of whom keep a store, suggesting the necessity of purchasing their goods from Wanamaker's stores in Philadelphia. Not only this, the postmasters were asked to become "sales agents" of the Wanamaker firm.

The civil service reform papers of Philadelphia and the vicinage are loud in their praises of this highly esteemed circular, and it is plain that they regard it as a stroke worthy af the great Napoleon.

There is another side to the picture, but we will not discuss it here. It is plain that the republican postmasters are under obligations to Wanamaker, and if they cannot act as the sales agents of his Philadelphia shebang, they can step down and out and make way for other republican postmasters who understand their business, and who feel that they are under obligations to Merchant John, Philadelphia.

How a Race War Starts.

The recent race war between the blacks and the Portuguese, at Georgetown, in Demerara, was precipitated by a very insignificant occurrence.

A negro boy took a two cent loaf instead of a cent loaf at a baker's shop. A fight ensued between the boy and the white baker, and both were sent to the police station. The blacks heard that the boy had been killed, and immediately began to loot the Portuguese stores and attack the whites wherever found.

The riot lasted until the second day, and the blacks, after drinking the liquor in the plundered saloons, were ready for anything. They fought furiously and with all sorts of weapons. Their women joined in the fray.

It took some time to get the police and soldiers ready, and there was some delay in securing permission for them to fire upon the rioters. Several were killed on both sides, and many were wounded. Finally, after property had been damaged to the extent of $100,000, the riot was subdued and 230 prisoners were locked up for trial.

This shows how a race war may start. It may not be the result of an organized effort—an accidental spark explodes the powder. The Demerara affair all started from a misunderstanding between a little negro boy and a white baker.

IF Boulanger will give an opinion favorable to diseased pork and "pure" hogs lard, we believe he can win the Chicago editors over to his side. The general should reflect over this.

THOSE who miss Dr. Lafferty's lecture will miss a rare entertainment. They will also miss contributing to a very noble cause.

THE great need of Atlanta continues to be rapid transit. Let us hope that the new syndicates understands and appreciates the situation.

IS THE type-writer mightier than the Chicago pen?

OHIO is to have compulsory education and certainly no state needs it worse.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

NO WONDER WE CAN find water when we dig for it. A Scotch geologist says that the earth was in a liquid state for 150,000 years.

AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN states that he cured a consumptive cough with hot buttermilk. He also found it very beneficial in the case of a patient recovering from congestive fever.

THE NEBRASKA LEGISLATURE has passed a law prohibiting the discharge of fire arms in the streets "except to destroy some wild, ferocious and dangerous beast, or an officer in the discharge of his duty." This is probably the only law on record which permits the people at large to shoot an officer in the discharge of his duty. Until the law is repealed very few will care to act as sheriff in Nebraska.

THE NEW YORK PRESS thinks that it is almost impossible to understand the intricacies of local government in Georgia, and that the deeper one gets in the more perplexing it becomes. So it may look to an outsider. Down here the matter seems to be simple enough.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Pliny Earle, the cure of insanity is becoming more and more difficult. It is said that less than thirty per cent of the patients recover.

IN HIS GLOOMY predictions of the failure of American institutions, Lord Macaulay said: "I appeal to the year 2,000." It was a long look ahead, and in that period of time almost everything is possible.

PEOPLE HERE AND THERE.

CLOUER.—Samuel Clouer, the new consul to be sent to Sheffield, is a journalist and humorist, of Sioux Falls, Dak.

WANAMAKER.—One of Postmaster General Wanamaker's friends predict his sudden prostration some day from overwork.

STEVENSON.—The novelist, Robert Louis Stevenson, is not dying, as was reported. He writes that he is in his usual health.

SMITH.—S. F. Smith, the author of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," still lives near Boston. He is eighty-seven years old.

JA JA.—King Ja Ja is living in exile at Kingston, St. Vincent's island, West Indies. He is allowed to have only one of his many wives with him, and the British government pays him $4,000 a year.

BIG RAILROAD DEALS.

The Central Railroad Company Makes a Big Sale of Bonds.

NEW YORK, April 22.—[Special.]—It was reported on Wall street today that the Central Railroad and Banking company of Georgia had just perfected the sale of eight and a half million dollars of five per cent bonds to the great German banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. The story created considerable talk and was acknowledged on all sides as the strongest evidence of established confidence in first-class southern railroad securities.

John H. Hall, president of the Georgia company, and other gentlemen prominently identified with the Georgia Central railroad, were seen and asked about the big negotiation, but not a one of them would talk. They all declined positively to discuss the matter in detail, and in fact, refused to either confirm or deny the report. I am, however, satisfied that it is not a case of all smoke and no fire. A negotiation no doubt has been made, but the contracting parties will not state the amount of bonds involved nor the terms on which they were sold.

This important fact, however, has transpired—the bonds are not of the Georgia Central proper, but of the Savannah and Western railroad—that is the old Columbus and Western, and are simply to be guaranteed by the Central. It is rather extraordinary that, in addition to this big deal in southern railroad bonds, should have cut a conspicuous figure on Wall street today. The Louisville and Nashville led the market on the stock exchange, and scored the best advance of any stock on the list.

ANOTHER SOUTHERN RAILROAD

It sold at 66⅞, the highest point it has touched for a long time, and the trading in it was much heavier than usual. The vigorous buying is said to be largely for foreign account, and likewise by strong friends of the property nearer home. It is whispered around that President Norton will very soon advocate the resumption of cash dividends.

Locating the Home.

The committee on location will meet this morning at 8 o'clock, and in carriages begin its work of examining the sites offered for the home. Locations are suggested in almost every section of the county, and several plats have been prepared and sites offered, of which part is donated and part is sold at a reduced price. The committee hopes to secure a good location at a nominal price, not to exceed $10,000 or $12,000 in any event, and very probably to go not one-half that high. Nothing less than 200 acres will be considered The committee will investigate thoroughly, and will make no decision until it has reported every detail back to the board for its approval or rejection.

$5 From the Messrs. Sloan.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 21.—Mr. Henry W. Grady: Please enter on your list for the confederate home:

Mrs D. U. Sloan, $1.
D. U. Sloan, Jr., $2.
D. U. Sloan, Sr., $2.

This little donation affords us more pleasure than any gift of our lives; only wish we could give a thousand.

$50 From New York.

APRIL 19, '89.—7 East 36 Street, New York—Hon. Henry W. Grady: I have the honor to inclose my check for $50. May I ask you to place it with the funds designed for the establishment of the "Confederate Soldiers' Home?" As a confederate soldier, allow me to thank you for opportunity you have created for those of us who have been the more fortunate to provide for those who, deserving as well, or may be better, have been the less fortunate. I feel, too, that all of us are under obligations to you for pointing out the incongruities associated with appeals to the north for confederate homes. The liberality of the north has been confirmed in every yellow fever crisis.

Let us promote self-respect by caring for our own unfortunate confederate comrades. Respectfully your obedient servant,

W. M. POLK.

$48.50 More from Cartersville.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., April 20.—Dear Mr. Grady: Add to our list Captain Charles B. Wallace, $25; Dr. J. F. Best, $10; Douglas Wikle, $2.50; Linn Sharpton, $1; A. M. Franklin, $5; W. A. Chunn Cassville, $5. Total, $48.50. Hope to send in other names by telegraph tonight. Truly yours,

A. M. FOUTE.

A Concert in Brunswick.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—Through the influence of Captain Dart, of the Brunswick Riflemen, Florence Elmore, now in the city, will, on May 9, give an entertainment, assisted by local talent, for the benefit of the confederate home. The military boys are working to make it a grand success. Captain Dart is an old veteran, and Florence Elmore's manager approched him on the subject. The result is that a large amount will be raised.

The Carrollton List.

CARROLLTON, Ga., April 22.—Editors Constitution: Please hand Mr. H. W. Grady the following list of subscribers to the confederate home, the aggregate amount having been wired you Saturday night: J. $1 From J. A. Butts.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 20.—Mr. H. W. Grady—Dear Sir: Herewith find an humble ($1,00) subscription to the confederate soldiers' home of Georgia. I wish I could make the sum one hundred instead of one. The fund cannot be too large, as in the next ten years its needs will much increase. Permit me to suggest as a special veterans' fund, the several regiments and battalions, which participated in the war from Georgia, raise each one hundred dollars, and give to the home. This will enlist every old soldier in the sweet benevolence of securing a shelter to his comrade in arms and will not be felt by the giver. Please do not mention my name. Yours, very respectfully,

J. A. BUTTS.

$2 From Jim Parker.

ATLANTA, April 20.—Hon. H. W. Grady: Inclosed find $2 for the grand movement that you are engaged in. Sorry that my means will not allow me to subscribe more. I am always willing to help Atlanta in all of her underakings. Let the old soldiers have a home. Yours, etc.,

JIM PARKER,

From an Eight-Year-Old.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., April 20.—Mr. H. W. Grady: I am a little girl eight years old. I feel sorry for the poor crippled soldiers. Grandpa was crippled in the war. I send my quarter for them.

CURTICE CAMP.

$10 From Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 19.—Mr. H. W. Grady—Dear Sir: I inclose check for $10, which please accept as a contribution to the confederate veterans' home. Yours very truly,

JAMES E. WILLIAMS, JR.

$11 More From Oglethorpe.

OGLETHORPE, Ga., April 20.—Hon. H. W. Grady: Since my list of last week I have had subscribed $11 more which makes $41 from Oglethorpe. If there are any more contributions from this place I will write you.

Very respectfully, GEORGE L. KEEN.

S. T. Sofley, $5; W. K. Hall, $1; Miss Lucy Keen, 50 cents; L, J. Gatlin, $1; E. Cook, $2; J. R. Williams, $1; Charles A. Greer, 25 cents; Will Cook, 25 cents. Total, $11; previously reported, $30; making a total of $41.

Ten More from Tennelle.

TENNILLE, Ga., April 20.—Mr. H. W. Grady: I am requested by Mr. Sid A. Pughsley, Jr., to increase his subscription reported to you on the 13th to $5. You will please add the following names to Tennille's list: A. F. Jordan, $1; Dr. C. E. Daniel, $1; B. F. Jawlson, $1; J. H. Martin, $1; A. Moffett, $1; Louis Moffet, $1. Total, $6. Add Mr. Pughsley $4—$10 additional, and oblige yours very respectfully,

J. A. POLHILL.

Five Dollars and a Verse.

POWDER SPRINGS, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—Please find enclosed $5 for the old confederates.

They saw the foeman's banners wave
O'er the homes where their youth was cherished;
They drew a sword that could not save
And stood where their comrades perished.

Each valley where the battle poured
Its red and awful tide
Beheld the brave confederate sword
With slaughter deeply dyed.

ROBERT R. MURRAY.

A Contribution and a Suggestion.

We acknowledge the receipt of the following letter, which explains itself:

"ATLANTA, Ga., April 22.—Mr. S. M. Inman, Chairman Finance Committee Confederate Veterans' Fund, Atlanta, Ga.: Dear Sir: We enclose a check for two hundred and fifty ($250) dollars. It is intended as a contribution to the fund which is being raised for the aid of confederate veterans.

"While we do not desire in this letter to discuss the merits of a central home, as compared with "direct aid," we do desire to suggest that comparatively few who deserve aid will come to the home, and that very many who need aid will, therefore, not receive any benefit whatever from such a use of the fund raised. The money, in our opinion, should not be used for the purpose of erecting a handsome place, or ornamental spot, but should be expended for the real benefit of the old confederates and those dependent upon them.

"We will gladly make our subscription one thousand dollars ($1,000) if you determine to distribute the fund throughout the state among the needy widows and orphans of ex-confederates, and among the needy survivors of those who so gallantly fought for the land which they loved. Yours very truly,

"THE ATLANTA JOURNAL."

In regard to the above we have simply this to say:

About two weeks ago THE CONSTITUTION called for subscriptions for "The establishment of a Confederate Home." The call was definite and the object was definitely stated. The responses came with amazing rapidity and unanimity. A meeting of subscribers was called and held. The plan of building a "Home" was enthusiastically and unanimously confirmed. Officers were elected, committees appointed, and the work is progressing. Subscriptions continue to pour in under the call for money to establish a "Home for Confederate Soldiers."

Let it be understood that we have not the slightest pride of opinion in this matter. Whatever is best for the cause—that suits us best. We believed that a home ought to be built. We believed and still believe—that a given amount of money can be used to better purpose in this way than in any other. The subscriptions we have received, by their spontaniety and promptness have certainly confirmed this opinion.

We do not hope that a "Home" will meet the demands of all the victims of the war. It does not, however, propose the exclusion of the wives and children of the veterans who will be helped—and it does propose to give homes and grounds to those who come. When it has done this to its utmost and is filled to its limits—there will still be thousands of widows and orphans and veterans who need help. A fund raised for their benefit, by those who believe that personal distribution is better than a "Home," would supplement the $150,000 of pensions paid by the state, and would reach thousands who do not come under the pension laws. The movement to raise such a fund would meet with our heartiest support. The present fund—by the words of the call—by the terms of the subscription—by the unanimous resolution of the subscribers—by the subsequent decision of the directors—is for the establishment of "THE CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS' HOME OF GEORGIA." A movement to raise a fund for personal distribution among veterans, their widows and orphans, is strong enough we are sure to stand on its own merits—and in perfect kindness, we suggest that it should be allowed to do so. To attempt to divert a fund which has been raised under definite terms for a definite purpose, to another and dissimilar purpose—or to attempt to raise a joint fund for two entirely dissimilar methods, even though they aim at the same end, would, we fear, weaken both and strengthen neither. The fund for a confederate "Home" is practically raised. A fund for "direct aid," if it commends itself to general favor, as we feel sure it will, can doubtless be raised with equal ease and promptness.

PROHIBITION DEFEATED.

Massachusetts Declares Overwhelmingly Against It.

BOSTON, April 22.—One hundred and fifty-eight cities and towns outside of Boston give the following vote on the prohibition constitutional amendment: Yes, 43,354; no, 55,328. The vote of Boston is: Yes, 11,060; no, 31,075. The amendment is defeated by from 35,000 to 40,000 majority.

The day was bright and cool, with prospects favorable for a large vote. Both parties have been active in the campaign and a full vote was expected. The day is a legal holiday with the exception that certain business transactions relating to contracts, etc., will be valid, and banks, exchanges and wholesale business houses are closed. The polls opened at 7 a. m. and closed at 4:30.

The following is a copy of the proposed amendment:

"The manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage are prohibited. The general court shall enact suitable legislation to enforce the provisions of this article."

Spelling Bee.

Tickets can now be reserved at Miller's book store without extra charge. Adults 50 cents, children 25 cents. Remember it is for the mutual benefit of St. Luke's and St. Philip's churches, and every Episcopalian should buy a ticket On Thursday a full list of spellers will be given. Boxes can be secured of Mr. DeGive.

LITTLE LOCALS.

Twelve requisitions were made on the governor of Tennessee yesterday.

Warrants to the amount of $147,240.43 were drawn in favor of the state treasurer yesterday.

The amount of pensions paid to maimed soldiers to date is $131,495.

Alderman Falligant, of Savannah, charges corruption in the city council. An investigation has been ordered.

THE BIG BLAZE.

A COMPLETE ACCOUNT OF THE SUFFERERS BY SUNDAY'S FIRE.

Details of Insurance and the Location of the Different Firms Who Were Forced to Remove on Account of the Conflagration—Scenes and Incidents Connected With the Fire.

Sunday's fire was much talked of yesterday.

The Atlanta people have the utmost confidence in the efficiency of the fire department. It was never better illustrated than during the progress of the fire Sunday evening.

Just across the street from the burning building stands the Metropolitan hotel. It was full of people when the fire bells rang.

Instead of making a panic of the alarm, the ladies of the house went quietly to work and packed up their clothes in their trunks, and all that they could not get into their trunks they rolled up in blankets and quilts, so that they might be ready for any emergency.

The gentlemen boarders got out the little hose that is used about the house, and played a small stream on the walls until they got too hot. They had to retreat until the firemen threw a few spurts of water over there and cooled the walls that were blistering with the heat.

Mrs. Keith, who had just recovered from a long and serious illness, was overcome with the excitement and had to lie down.

With that exception there was not a single incident that could be classed under the head of a casualty.

Of course Cap Joyner's fame as a fire chief is of national repute, now, but the greeting extended to him by the insurance men, Sunday night, was enough to make any man proud.

One man said, "Every time we saw that white helmet, through the smoke of the burning building, we cheered. We felt that our interests were safe."

To Chief Joyner and his brave men is due the credit of confining that fire to four walls. With a little headway, it might have swept away that entire block and half a dozen more.

All night long Sunday the firemen watched the Jackson building.

Every now and then the smouldering embers in among the paper stock, in the upper stories, would flare up; or the woodwork in the floors and door and window facings would kindle into a blaze.

At an early hour yesterday morning the workmen began getting out the remainder of the books, papers and furniture of W. H. Patterson, bond and stock broker, on the first floor on the Pryor street side, and also the office of the Metropolitan Street Railway company.

Mr. Patterson's loss was slight, amounting to ess than $500, as the most of the books and papers in his office were saved. He was insured in the Atlanta Home for $500.

Yesterday morning an office was engaged in room No. 10, Gate City bank, where Mr. Patterson is now located.

In the same room was Mr. W. H. Plane, dealer in railroad supplies. Mr. Plane got the news of the fire at his home in Baltimore block, and ran to the burning building in just six minutes. He only saved a part of his effects, and lost a number of valuable records, catalogues and other documents. He had no insurance.

Mr. Plane has secured quarters in the Gate City Bank building.

THE WELLHOUSE INSURANCE.

Messrs. Wellhouse & Sons lost their machinery and entire stock, except what was stored in the second story of the building occupied by Brunner & Browder. They carried a stock variously estimated from $75,000 to $100,000.

Their insurance is as follows on stock:

Commercial Union	$1,500
Hamburg Bremen	1,000
American	1,500
Northern	1,500
Germania	3,250
Hartford	2,000
Queen	4,000
North American	1,000
Fire Association	1,000
Western	2,000
German-American	2,650
Norwich Union	1,500
Atlanta Home	1,000
London and Lancashire	2,000
Sun Fire	1,000
Total	$27,300
On machinery:
Orient	$ 1,000
Imperial	1,000
Fire association	1,000
Merchants	1,000
Norwich Union	1,000
Total	$ 5,000
On office furniture and fixtures:
North American	$ 250
German-American	100
Sun Fire	750
Total	$ 1,100
Total	$33,400

Besides this, they carried about $12,000 insurance on the stock in the building occupied by Brunner & Browder, next door, which was undamaged. They carried an accident policy on the engine and boilers in the Hartford Boiler Accident company of $6,000, which runs their insurance up to $51,500.

They are connected with several paper mills doing a large business, and they announce that they will furnish their mill supplies as usual, and that there will be no delay on account of the fire.

WILL REBUILD AT ONCE.

Captain Harry Jackson will proceed to re-erect the building on the latest modern plans, just as soon as the walls cool, and so soon as it is ready for occupancy, the Wellhouse & Sons manufactory will resume work.

MR. HAAS'S LOSS.

There is still a lot of uncertainty surrounding the loss sustained by Mr. Aaron Haas. Mr. Haas was lessee of the basement and second floor, and sub-let the offices.

Mr. Guthman, who is in the same office, is unable to give an estimate, and Mr. Haas will not return from Nashville until some time today. His safe contains all his books, papers and insurance policies, and it has not been opened. He had his office furniture and fixtures insured for $400 in the German American.

In the basement he had a car load of lard, a car load of canned beef and a lot of coffee, flour and other groceries. The floor was a foot deep in water yesterday, and there was no means of ascertaining the damage done.

The stock was insured for $1,000 in the American, $500 in the Commercial Union, and $1,000 in the Merchants', and it is supposed that the loss is fully covered.

THE DOG WAS SAVED.

Mr. Guthman rescued the little rat terrier yesterday morning. The dog was perched on a flour barrel, safe and sound, with the water in a foot of him.

Mr. Guthman says that the reason he tried to preserve his hat was that it was not insured, and his head was fully covered.

THE RAILROAD OFFICES.

Mr. J. A. Sams, general southern agent for the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, and the Louisville and Nashville railroad, sustained damages to the amount of probably $100 to his records. This damage is irreparable as he had no insurance. He has secured new quarters at No. 32 East Alabama street.

Captain Trezevant, soliciting freight agent of the Western and Atlantic, saved most of his effects. He had no insurance, but the loss was slight. He has secured quarters at No. 10 East Alabama street.

OTHERS LOCATED.

Ansley Bros. saved their office furniture and safe, and their loss is very slight. Assisted by their friends, Mr. Forrest Adair and Mr. Will Davis, they saved most of their effects. They carried no insurance. They are located at No 10 East Alabama street.

Mr. Porter King was insured in the Merchants for $1,000; $900 on his library and $100 on the furniture.

Yesterday morning the firemen, by the aid of ladders, ascended to the second story of the building and secured nearly all of the books and papers, but they were in a badly damaged condition. Mr. King had a magnificent library and a lot of papers that were of great value to him in his practice. These were either practically ruined or so badly injured as to be worth nothing but for the junk shop.

A PIECE OF ENTERPRISE.

The R. G. Dun & Co. was the most enterprising of all the firms. By the gray light of the morning an employe climbed up on the shaky corner of the burned building, facing Pryor street, and tacked a card on the wall designating that Dun's Commercial agency had removed to room No. 11, first floor of the Gate City Bank building.

As was stated yesterday, they had $2,000 in the Georgia Home, on the furniture. Their loss is in the neighborhood of $5,000.

W. P. & W. F. Pattillo, insurance agents, saved nearly all their books and papers, but these were in a badly damaged condition. Their furniture was also damaged by fire and water, and the entire damage will probably foot up $500.

They were insured in the Hartford Insurance company for $400, on their furniture. They have secured quarters in the rooms formerly occupied by Perdue & Egleston, on the first floor of the Gate City bank building. Mr. Pattillo rented his office while the building was burning.

The Merchants and Mechanics Banking and Loan company escaped with a trifling loss. Mr. Logan keeps the papers of the company at his home on Forest avenue.

Mr. C. S. Winn, an attorney on the second floor, saved all his effects, but as the rescurer came down the ladder with the desk yesterday morning, the lid opened and many of his papers were scattered to the four winds of heaven. Mr. Winn was not insured, but his loss is very slight.

Some Incidents.

As young Mr. Patillo came down the stairway with a big bundle of ledgers under his arm, a stream of water struck him and he tumbled down, scattering his books and spoiling his spring suit.

Mr. Browder wanted to sound the depth of the water in the basement. Groping along he stepped into the elevator well and got a ducking.

Brunner & Browder, grocers, who occupied the adjoining building, sustained considerable loss from water and smoke in their stock in the basement and first story. There were six inches of water or more in the basement yesterday, where they have stored a large lot of sugar, flour, soda and other groceries.

They are insured in the Home for $6,000 and are amply protected.

Captain Jim Wright did good service in keeping back the crowd and assisting the fire department Sunday afternoon. He, with Captain Couch, was on hand at the time; and was one of the first men at the fire, Patrolman Stewart being in his squad and reporting the fire to him.

A negro driver of a street sprinkling cart drove over the hose on Alabama street yesterday morning. He was fined ten dollars and given a good lecture by Recorder Anderson, who said he wanted to make an example of any one violating the ordinances in cases like this.

The reason of the frequent ringing of the firebells yesterday morning was the crossing of the telegraph and the fire alarm wires near the scene of the fire.

There were seven large Herring safes in the building, and all were found intact, with the combinations in working order and the contents well preserved.

The walls on the Pryor street side are badly out of plumb from the cornice of the second story toward the roof. On Alabama street the damage only extends to the top of the third story. The fire inspectors will examine the walls today and decide upon how far down they will be condemned.

Yesterday there was a detail from the hook and ladder company, and from the other companies on duty around the building all day. It was late in the evening before they stopped throwing water, and a detail was left on duty last night to watch the smouldering ruins.

Dr. Louis Von Der Hoya on yesterday, while on his farm, just east of Grant park, picked up a piece of burning paper with Wellhouse's name on it, thus informing him that it was the Jackson building on fire and making the smoke, which was plainly visible at a distance of two miles and a half.

THE VETERAN ZOUAVES.

The Famous New Jersey Company Tenders an Invitation to Governor Gordon.

Yesterday Lieutenant Colonel J. E. Fenn, of the Veteran Zouaves, of Elizabeth, New Jersey, representing General J. Madison Drake, commander of that organization, called on Governor Gordon and invited him and his staff to be the guests of the Zouaves during the Washington centennial.

Colonel Fenn also tendered the services of the Zouaves as an escort to Governor Gordon and staff, through the state of New Jersey to the line.

It is probable that both invitations will be accepted.

The famous Washington Light Infantry, of Charleston, S. C., will be the guests of the Zouaves during the centennial.

The Veteran Zouaves are a splendid organization—the only one of the kind in the United States. It is composed exclusively of veterans of the war. They were organized in 1866 by General J. Madison Drake, who served through the entire war with gallantry. There are 150 men in this great company, ranging in age from forty to seventy-five years.

They have had many brilliant receptions in the cities of the north. In 1881 they entertained General U. S. Grant an entire day and evening. In 1886 they crossed the continent on a month's tour acting as escort for the national encampment G. A. R. in San Francisco, bringing home a $2,000 silk embroidered flag, the gift of the Veteran Guard of that city. Ovations were given them at St. Louis, Kansas City, Topeka, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Chicago and Philadelphia. The Zouaves have entertained many distinguished soldiers, civilians and crack organizations in their time, and expect to keep "open house" for many years to come.

The Water Works Survey.—The water works survey will be pushed forward just as soon as the state of the water works will permit. At the last meeting of the council, Mr. Hemphill explained that Mr. Herring, the expert, had left certain work to be done by City Engineer Clayton and that this work would be done as soon as the water was low enough to make it possible.

The Street Railroad's History.—More than six months ago a syndicate of eastern capitalists sought to combine with a few of the best Atlanta people for the purpose of buying up the street railway systems of this city. They failed to agree on details and probably as many as four or five different companies or combinations were formed without the object being accomplished. Meantime the death of Mr. Richard Peters occurred, and Messrs. Jones & Fuller stepped in and bought a controlling interest in the West End and Atlanta line. This was no sooner done than they were approached for a ten days' option on their purchase, at a profit. This was declined and subsequently they received two profitable offers, which were also refused. Last week they bought up what few shares were on the market, obtained options on all the balance and on Saturday closed out the whole property to Mr. Hugh T. Inman for the Union Street Railway company.

Church Elections.—Yesterday being Easter Monday an election of vestrymen was held at St Philip's Episcopal church. The following vestrymen were elected: T. O. Troy, T. H. Austin, A. D. Boylston, T. T. Dickson, Dr. V. O. Hardon, T. A. Scriven, H G. Gilmore and J. W. Russey. Mr. T. E. Walker was elected senior warden, and Mr. M. T. Walker junior warden. St. Luke's is a cathedral and no such election was held there. In both churches delegates were chosen to the state diocesan convention which meets in Atlanta on the 15th of May, at St. Luke's. The delegates from St. Philip's were Messrs. J. R. Lewis, T. E. Walker and T. H. Austin; alternates, Messrs. H. G. Gilmore, T. E. Scriven and M. T. Walker. The delegates from St. Luke's are Messrs. Z. D. Harrison, F. M. Scott and Burton Smith.

SAFE ON LAND.

The Danmark's Passengers in Philadelphia.

HOW THEY WERE RESCUED

The Hurried Abandonment of the Sinking Vessel.

SCENES ON THE MISSOURI'S DECK.

Landing at St. Michael's—The Story of the Captain.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The steamship Missouri, with 565 of the people from the wrecked steamer Danmark, arrived at the American line steamship dock at 6 o'clock this evening. All were well on board with the exception of three persons, who are ill but doing well. All of the Danmark's passengers look hearty and bright and show no signs of the hardships which they must have necessarily endured. Among those on board from the Danmark were eight members of the Danmark's crew, including the purser, surgeon, one cook, butcher, baker, and two stewardesses. Nearly all the immigrants are bound for western points, and they will be forwarded direct from here to their destination.

CAPTAIN MURRELL'S STATEMENT.

Captain Hamilton Murrell, commander of the Missouri, makes the following statement:

"We left London with a general cargo for our first trip to Philadelphia on March 28th. We had a fair passage up to 1:20 p. m. of April 5th, when we sighted the steamship Danmark, flying a signal of distress. The wind at the time was blowing strong from the west. We bore down upon the steamer and found her disabled. Captain Knudsen, her commander, reported that the tail end of his shaft was broken, and he wished us to take his passengers to New York. Owing to the state of the weather, and because of the fact that I was not prepared to accommodate such a number of people, I declined to accede to his request, but offered, instead, to TOW HIS VESSEL TO THE NEAREST PORT.

"This offer, Captain Knudsen accepted, and two hours after we first sighted the Danmark, we placed two ropes on board that vessel and proceeded slowly turning to sea and wind, and heading northwest for St. Johns, N. F., which I considered the best port to make under the circumstances. The wind blew with tremendous force all night and progress was most difficult. On April 6th, at 5:30 a. m., finding that I could make no headway in a westerly direction and seeing ice to the windward I decided to abandon my hope of reaching St. Johns and determined to make for St. Michaels, one of the Azores islands. I signalled my determination to the captain of the Danmark and he agreed that this was the best course to pursue, and one hour later

WE SQUARED AWAY FOR ST. MICHAELS.

"At 7 a. m. the Danmark signalled to us: 'We are leaking considerably. There are now three feet of water in the aft hold, and it is gaining rapidly.' I asked what I should do, and the signal came, 'Keep on towing.'

"At 9:20 a. m. the Danmark again signalled us. This time the signal read: 'The Danmark is sinking. We must abandon the ship. Will you take our passengers without a moment's hesitation.' I signalled, 'Yes; I will take all on board and do the best I can.' I then cut the tow line, and we dropped down to the Danmark.

"Chief Officer Glen, of that vessel, came on board the Missouri and informed me of the condition of his ship. He said that although the weather at the time was fine, Captain Knudsen had decided that for the best interest of those on his ship it would and get all the people on board the Missouri, while there was plenty of time.

"At 9:30 a.m. we launched our two life boats, in charge of Second Officer Lucas, and Third Officer Forsyth, and these two boats proceeded to the Danmark. In the meantime seven of the sinking steamer's boats were manned by the crew of that steamer, and the work of transferring the passengers began. A heavy swell was running during all of this memorable day, making the work of removing the people from the sinking ship one of great difficulty, and it was only by the hardest kind of work that we were able to avoid accidents both to the people and to the boats. The women and children were removed first, and after them the male passengers and crew.

"The officers of the Danmark remained on board their vessel. At 2 p. m. we finished the work of transferring the passengers, having consumed nearly five hours, and getting everybody, with the exception of the officers, safely on the Missouri without a single accident of any kind.

THE OFFICERS LEAVE THE SHIP.

"About one hour later the barometer began falling; the weather was coming in thick and looking dirty, and I sent word to Captain Knudsen and his faithful officers to leave the ship and come on board the Missouri, and, after getting some provisions from the Danmark, which had now settled very perceptibly in the water, that vessel was finally abandoned, Captain Knudsen being the last to leave his ship.

"I then counted the heads, and found that we had on board, in addition to our own crew of forty-five men and four passengers, six hundred and sixty-nine cabin and steerage passengers and sixty-nine of the officers and crew of the ill-fated steamer. After we had taken everybody from the Danmark, we pulled the plugs out of the bottoms of that vessel's boats, which we had used, and left them of the Atlantic, and I can't understand how the Minnesota picked up one of these boats six days later.

"Our last view of the Danmark showed that vessel to be rapidly going down, her stern being almost even with the sea, and the water was breaking over her. We threw overboard most of our cargo between decks, consisting principally of baled rags, in order to make room for the accommodation of large additions to our passenger list.

"On looking over our provisons we found after a careful estimate of the number of mouths we had to feed, we had only enough food on board to last three days and I decided to make all possible haste to reach the port of St. Michaels, which was 720 miles away. The cabin passengers of the Danmark were given accommodations in the Missouri's passenger cabins, and the officers gave up their cabins for the use of the women and children

A BIRTH AT SEA.

"On April 7th, at 1:20 a. m., about ten hours after the transfer was made, Mrs. Linni, aged 18, a pretty Danish woman, who was on the way to America to her husband, gave birth to a girl in my cabin. The little stranger was christened 'Atlanta Missouri.' The child was born during a howling storm, which rocked the vessel and caused the sea to break over us. We had started for St. Michaels with all on board at 5 p. m. of the 6th. The weather was very threatening at that time and the wind increased in violence as the night wore on. Everything possible was done to make the passengers comfortable. Awnings and sails were brought out and used as a partial protection to the panic stricken emigrants, who for the first time showed signs of fear. All through the trying times which had preceded this storm they acted admirably. The gale kept increasing in fury and there was a tremendous sea running which was continually breaking over the vessel and, taken altogether, things looked dubious.

SHORT OF PROVISIONS.

"It must be remembered that we were very short of provisions and this storm at the very outset of our journey toward St. Michaels made me fearful of reaching that port safely. By dalylight of April 8th, however, the gale had materially decreased and we were able to make fine progress.

"The 9th went by without incident and at 9:30 a. m. of April 10th we arrived at St. Michaels.

"On April 11th, at 11 a. m., we landed 370 of the passengers and crew of the Danmark, including Captain Knudsen, at St. Michaels. In dividing up our load we kept on board the Missouri families, endeavoring, as far as possible, to leave single men and those not having children at St. Michaels. At 6 p. m. of the same day we sailed from St. Michaels with three hundred and sixty-five people from the Danmark, including eight of the crew of that vessel, who were allowed to come with us. We had fine weather all the way to Philadelphia and a remarkably on board, considering the crowded condition of our boat. We have now three cases in the hospital: Carl Jenson, a Norwegian, bound for the west, who has a severe carbuncle on his face; a baby ill with pneumonia, and a Scandinavian, who has some trifling ailment. All the officers cheerfully gave up their quarters for the use of the women and children and the best of good nature has prevailed the entire trip. We had plenty to eat on the voyage from St Michaels here, having taken on a supply at that place amply sufficient to last us.

SMALL AMOUNT OF SICKNESS

The Hero of the Hour.

Captain Murrell, of the steamer Missouri, is the hero of the hour, and his reception here has been so enthusiastic as to embarrass him, for he bears his honor modestly. He is a young man, but an old sailor. He is but 28 years of age, but has been master of vessels six years, having held master from the date of reaching legal age.

To the hundreds who showered their congratulations upon him, he had a bright smile and "Oh, well, anybody would have done the same. I'm only sorry I couldn't do more." The trip of the Missouri up the Delaware river was a pleasant one throughout, and when she landed at her dock at 6 o'clock, the captain was almost sorry that his humane mission was at an end. The steamer had picked up on her way up the channel several tug boats, the representatives of the Thingvalla line, of Peter Wright & Sons, agents, and of the leading newspapers of the country. All were taken aboard and received a "I welcome you aboard, sir," from the hero of the ill starred Danmark's misfortune. Everybody was hurrying to and fro, getting what little of their possessions they had been able to save from the sinking steamer, and although they were for the most part strangers in a strange land, among a people whose tongue was unknown to them, they displayed upon their ruddy faces every sign of joy at reaching terra firma sound and well. All of them had the same story to tell in reference to their treatment on either boat, the Danmark and the Missouri, and all were loud in their praise of the valor and chivalry displayed, which to their minds, made up largely for the enforced delay in their voyage. From early morning the crowds began to gather at the piers along the river front below her human cargo, and when the vessel reached the first of these docks, she was saluted in every possible way, always answering with her heavy and sonorous whistle. When Greenwich Pit, where the Pennsylvania Railroad company has its coal shipping piers, was reached, every locomotive in the yards sent up a long continued salute, which was taken up by the tugs and the river craft in the stream, and it was thoroughly appreciated by the passengers who, apparently too amazed or too joyful to answer in any other way, hauled out their kerchiefs and waved them long and energetically. Before this point had been reached the boat was boarded by Rev. C. M. Holm, who represented the Swedish society of Philadelphia. He went aboard the decks cheering, in their native tongue, the passengers, who, in many instances, were worrying over the loss of all their earthly possessions save what they had upon their backs. His words had a splendid effect upon them, and he was untiring in his efforts to render every assistance at his command. In this good work of caring for them, he was not alone, however, as General Passenger Agent John Roth, of the Thingvalla line, Kiefser, of the passenger department of the same line, and Johnson, of the firms of A. E. Johnson & Co., of St. Paul, and A. Martensen & Co., of Chicago, general northwestern and general western agents of the line, respectively, were there and devoted all of their energies in that direction. When the boat finally touched at her pier the work of disembarking was an easy task, and directly from the ship the passengers were conducted to a well laden table, fully 200 feet in length, at which they had their fill of good things provided, a treat they had not looked for, but which was made doubly welcome, after their thoroughly kind treatment on the British vessel.

THE CAPTAIN COMPLIMENTED.

Just befor arriving at the pier, a florist's agent boarded the ship and searching out Captain Murrell, presented him, on behalf of several prominent ship owners and citizens, with a handsome floral ship, the hull and rigging being composed of pink roses on a sea of evergreens, and trimmed with silvered sails. It was a complete surprise to the captain, but he recovered himself and accepted it in a few words, wherein his modesty again played a prominent part.

"I thank you," he said, to those who had gathered around him, "for the officers and crew of my vessel for this offering, because I appreciate that this is not alone intended for me, but for the brave men who surround me. It has been said that there are no more British sailors, but I have been convinced on this trip that the British sailor still lives. I speak for my officers and men when I say that we are very glad, indeed, that we were able to do this much for these poor people, but any one else, under the circumstances, would have done the same. I thank you for myself, for my officers and my crew, for the kind way in which you have received us in Philadelphia, and I am happy to state that I brought all here safe and well, with the exception of one little baby, who, when the doctor sees it will, I think, enable us to present a clean bill of health."

A cheer went up as the rosy-cheeked, weather-beaten captain finished his little speech and he retired to his quarters. The floral tribute to his bravery and humanity was an excellent specimen of the art of floral design, and was admired by everybody who was fortunate enough to catch a glimpse of it.

The case of sickness referred to was that of Sigvard Martin, a five-months-old girl who has been suffering with pneumonia of a rather mild form, which is not likely to terminate unfavorably.

Among the passengers there were few who could talk in anything but their native language; that it was an intelligent story of the accident which befell the Danmark. All of those who could make themselves understood though had the same story in substance to tell. They seemed to think of nothing else but the bravery, coolness, kindness and heroic efforts made in their behalf by the officers of the ship they deserted, and the one who sheltered and succored them. The features of their narratives were so prominent that they had almost lost sight of the causes which led up to their transfer.

About 11 o'clock tonight a special train on the Pennsylvania railroad conveyed nearly 300 of the Danmark's emigrants toward their destinations in the west and northwest. The remaining 65, or thereabouts, who were destined in the east, left tonight over the same line. A majority of these bound west are going to Minnesota, Dakota and other points in that section, while some go as far as Washington territory. They will be accompanied by agents of the Thingvalla line, and will be reprovisioned at Chicago.

Captain Murrell will be lionized for the next day or two as a mark of esteem in which he is held by those who know him, and his gallantry. He brought the Missouri to this port today on her maiden trip, she having made but two voyages previous to this, and both from Baltomore. Tomorrow at noon Captain Murrell, by invitation of the maritime exchange, will hold a public reception at their building, and tomorrow night he will be the honored guest at the annual dinner of the Sons of St. George.

THE FINAL LEAVE TAKING

between Captain Murrell and the passengers of the Danmark was affecting in the extreme. As to the death of Engineer Kaas, of the Danmark, there was nothing to be learned. There were no witnesses to his tragic fate, and the only stories heard of him were simply matters of conjecture. The most plausible and most generally believed story of his death is that when he found the shaft had broken and was with every revolution tearing a large hole in the Danmark's bottom, he made an effort to turn off the steam in order to stop the machinery. Perhaps in an unguarded moment, or a moment of excitement, or becoming bewildered, he caused the accident which cost him his life. Whether it was an explosion of the steam pipe or the fast revolving broken shaft which was responsible for it, will probably never be known.

The Missouri is a fine new steel vessel of 1,000 tons register, built for the freight carrying exclusively, but she carried her heavy cargo of human life without accident, and with tolerable comfort. This was her third voyage. She made two voyages to Baltimore and this was her first to Philadelphia, and likely to be her most memorable. She belongs to the Atlantic transport "Red D." line. Captain Murrell spoke admiringly of the manner in which the unfortunates, so unexpectly thrown upon his charge, had conducted themselves. The scene of the meeting between the gallant captain of the Missouri, and a gentleman who had gone down the river in Peter Wright & Sons' tug "Newcastle" to meet him was very affecting.

AFFECTING SCENES.

At Chester, the signal "you are welcome" had been hoisted on the flag pole of the maritime station there, and the flags conveying the response to this signal were hoisted on the Missouri. When the tug ran alongside the storm beaten steamer, those on board, including the near friends of Captain Murrell and the representatives of the Thingvilla line, to which the ill fated Danmark belonged, rushed up to the captain's lookout and over powered him with the warmth and fervor of their congratulations.

"GOOD BOY, MURRELL,"

"God bless you captain," and similar exclamations came from the party and nearly all embraced and kissed him, at the same time shedding tears of joy, to which the captain was not ashamed to contribute his share. Another affecting scene took place when Rev. Dr. Holm, the Scandinavian minister of this city, boarded the Missouri and went among the people gathered on her decks, bestowing words of good cheer and encouragement. Meeting Captain Murrell, he grasped his hand and exclaimed: "God bless you! God bless you, captain, for saving the lives of these poor people!"

The captain protested that he had only done his duty, and hurried away almost overwhelmed by the fervor of the congratulations of the reverend gentleman.

SOCIETY GOSSIP.

Many beautiful and unique amateur entertainments have been given in Atlanta, but never has the one presented to the public last night been excelled, when Schiller's "Bell" was presented to a large and appreciative audience. A great deal had been written of this entertainment, but the highest idea of the most vivid imagination could not begin to picture it perfectly.

Mrs. Fo ce and Mrs. Olmstead, who were the chief ladies in directing this entertainment, deserve great praise for its splendid success which was well rewarded by the large sum of money realized for be Young Men's Library association.

Upon the evening of the 30th the last german of the season will be given by the young gentlemen of the Nine O'Clock club at the Kimball. This club has during the winter given the most delightful and elegant dances, making itself distinguished among the leaders of fashion and a great pleasure to all the society young ladies and gentlemen of Atlanta. It is composed of prominent young men, who will make this the most elegant of the season. The figures and favors will all be new, beautiful and unique, and the music will be perfect.

Miss Lieze Glover, a charming young lady of Marietta, is visiting Miss Eloise Gaston at 154 Loyd street.

An entertainment for the benefit of a school library will be given by the pupils of Washington seminary this evening, April 23d, beginning at 8 o'clock. Exercises will consist of music and recitations. Admission 50 cents.

Miss Anna Muse, the sister of Mr. George Muse, who has for the past five years been a missionary to China, is expected to arrive in Atlanta today. She will be warmly welcomed by her Atlanta friends.

Mrs. C. J. Ledbetter, of Cedartown, is in the city, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Lee, at Trinity parsonage.

The Knoxville Tribune contains the following account of a wedding in which many Atlanta people are interested:

The marriage of Mr. Isaac W. Lovejoy, of Atlanta, to Miss Beulah Hoxsie, was one of the events of the week. The ceremony was performed in the Gilinch Street Methodist Episcopal church last Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, by Dr. Prentiss in the presence of a number of friends and relatives. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Messrs. Burt Lovejoy and Burrell Sanders, of Atlanta; Charley Young and R. K. Gibson acted as ushers. A reception followed at the residence of the bride's mother, on Broad street. Mr. and Mrs. Lovejoy left for Atlanta Wednesday morning, which city they will make their future home.

A delightful picnic at Stone Mountain Saturday was enjoyed by a small party of Atlanta ladies and gentlemen. The party consisted of Mrs. George Muse, Miss Helen Muse, Miss Jessie Muse, Miss Ethel Richards, Miss Nina Hansell, Miss Willie Howard and Miss Mamie Johnson. The gentlemen were Professor Barlil, Dr. Arch Avary, and Messrs. T. M. Perryman, Ray Wellborn and Will J. Kendrick. The party left the city early Saturday morning with heavily laden lunch baskets, and passed a delightful day.

At the station the party was met by Mr. Charlie Venable, of the Stone Mountain Granite company, by whom they were given a special train over the Stone Mountain road to the picnic ground.

Major-General W. H. F. Lee, better known as General "Rooney" Lee, is stopping at the Kimball. Mrs. Lee, formerly Miss Tabbolling and one of the most famous of Virginia beauties, is with her husband.

The visit of the Yale college boys tomorrow evening will be the most interesting event of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Grant have issued invitations to a reception at their elegant home for Thursday afternoon, from 4 o'clock until 7.

Among Local Roads.

Mr. Alex. Thweatt, of the Georgia Pacific, has gone to Birmingham on business.

Mr. H. W. Morrison, commercial agent of the St. Louis, Arkansas and Texas railroad, with headquarters at Memphis, was in the city yesterday.

The friends of Mr. Fred Bush, of the Louisville and Nashville, will be glad to learn that he is out again. He has been sick in bed for a week past, and was threatened with pneumonia from exposure. It is a remarkable fact that this is the first time Mr. Bush has ever been sufficiently sick to take his bed.

Superintendent Berkeley, of the Air-Line, left in his special car yesterday afternoon on a tour of inspection over his road.

Mr. George L. Hopkins and party, in a special car from the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railroad, reached the city on the Richmond and Danville last night. They were en route to Birmingham.

A Letter from Dr. Hans Von Bulow.

The Knabe Pianos, which I did not know before, have been chosen for my present concert tour in the United States by my Impressario and accepted by me on the recommendation of my friend, Bechstein, acquainted with their merits. Had I known these pianos as now I do, I would have chosen them by myself, as their sound and touch are more sympathetic to my ears and hands than all others of the country.

The Hotel Remodeled.

MADISON, Ga., April 22.—[Special.]—The "Hotel Bermuda" is the name of the new hotel recently opened at the old "Forest Home" place, near the depot. The houses have all been remodeled, the grounds beautified, and a most charming place has been made under the touch of the proprietor, Mr. H. C. Matthews. The Hotel Bermuda gets its name from the extensive bermuda fields of middle Georgia.

MEMORIAL DAY COLLECTIONS

To Be Taken Up Generally in the City for the Home.

At the request of the finance committee of the subscribers to the confederate home, a number of young gentlemen met yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at THE CONSTITUTION office, to give direction to, and take charge of, the Memorial Day collections for the home in the city. Among those present were Messrs. L. Z. Rosser, W. P. Hill, Andy Calhoun, Hooper Alexander, Fulton Colville, Clark Howell, Jr., and others. A committee, consisting of about twenty-five well known gentlemen, was appointed to take charge of the collection for that day, Mr. Clark Howell Jr., being chairman, and Mr. W. P. Hill secretary. Committees were appointed to confer with the Ladies' Memorial association today, and also with the Confederate Veterans' association, concerning the same thing.

The committee prepared an appeal to be distributed in the business houses of the city on Thursday, asking for contributions for the home from those who have not yet given anything. Any subscription, from five cents up, will be gladly received, and credited in THE CONSTITUTION. The following is the appeal for "The Memorial Day Collection:"

To the People of Atlanta: It is fitting in every way that when Memorial Day is done and its sun gone down the people of Georgia shall stand acquitted before mankind and history of the debt they owe their heroes. The quarter of a century is rounding out and if we do not pay the debt we will incur the reproach of pleading the statute of limitation to the demands of gratitude.

The young men of Atlanta have undertaken to give every man and woman in the city an opportunity to help Atlanta do her part. On Friday next they will cause boxes to be placed at every street corner so that you may drop in your portion, great or small. Lists will be placed in every business house in Atlanta and it is urgently insisted that some man in every establishment see that his house contributes its part. No man should hesitate to give because his gift is small. It will be all the sweeter to the soldier if he knows that his home is a gift from all his people, from rich and poor, from old and young, from sire and son alike. See that the name of every man in your house is on the list and send the lists to THE CONSTITUTION by night. Remember that these lists are for the small givers, for those whose gifts are the richer because given by those who deny themselves in order to make the gift.

Let Atlanta do her part. Remember that the monuments to the dead will discredit you to your children if they only serve to remind them of your forgetfulness of the living.

On Friday next, when you gather round the graves of the dead and listen to the story of their valor, when you bring your wreathes of flowers to deck the silent homes of those who gave their lives for Georgia, when your pulse quickens and your heart stirs at the memory of their suffering and death, when your pride is highest for the legacy of heroism they left their children, do not forget that the maimed and suffering are with you yet. Their limbs are stiff, their wounds are cold, their strength is gone, and the only hope they have is in the grateful memory of their people. Well has one of them said that history will shame us if we neglect them now.

Committees were appointed for the different business streets to leave a list in every business house in the city, and it is to be hoped that from this source several thousand dollars will be collected. There is not a store in the city that will not subscribe something, and the subscriptions from this source will be made from five cents up.

Another feature of the Memorial Day collections will be the placing of subscription boxes at different points in the city and at the cemetery, to be in charge of the above committee, assisted by the Confederate Veterans' association. A confederate veteran will be placed at each box, and contributions are earnestly requested from everybody who are willing to add their mite to the building of the home.

MR. TRIPPE VERY ILL.

One of the Most Efficient Clerks of the Senate At the Point of Death.

Mr. R. P. Trippe, clerk of the senate under Hon. W. A. Harris, is very ill at his home, 154 South Pryor street.

Everybody knows Bob Trippe, and this announcement will carry sadness to the hearts of a host of friends throughout Georgia who know him so well.

Sunday morning he got up and shaved himself, kindled a fire in the stove and got everything ready to awaken his wife. He called her about seven o'clock, and then sat down with Mr. J. H. Hale, to read the morning paper. He did not sit there many minutes before he got up, walked into the dining room and met his wife, who saw that there was something the matter with him by the unnatural look in his eyes. She sprang forward and caught him, as he started to fall, and led him into her bedroom and sent for a physician.

Mr. Fenn, who lives there, took hold of him and tried to walk him up and down and relieve him. But when Dr. Gidding arrived he saw that the disease was serious. In a short time Dr. Knott arrived and the two physicians decided that it was an apoplectic stroke on the left side of his head, and entire paralysis of the right side of his body.

His father, Judge R. F. Trippe, was telegraphed for, and arrived from Albany at 10:40 last night. The physicians held a consultation, and pronounced the case almost hopeless.

At 2 o'clock this morning Mr. Trippe was still alive, but unconscious. He has not spoken a word since his first attack.

Who is He?

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: I want to say a word about a communication which appeared in your "grumble" column yesterday. Under ordinary circumstances I would not take any notice of such an article, but as I am personally acquainted with the telephone subscribers, I do not believe the article refered to was written by a "subscriber." I therefore ask that the writer send in his address to THE CONSTITUTION. He failed to give his name at first, and I don't believe he can give it now as a "subscriber," and, therefore, does not deserve further notice. The telephone service in Atlanta is as good as can be found in any city where there are as many subscribers. The only way to improve the present service is for the subscribers to refuse the use of their telephones to non-subscribers, to follow the rules as published and put with each station; to report any trouble promptly to No. 500, if they fail to receive prompt attention then to report by letter to me. No subscriber can say that, having done as requested, I have failed to give them my personal attention. I am always ready to take orders. Telephone 309, or address

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The stock market today was dull but generally firm and slightly higher than Saturday's closing prices in all but few shares. Dealings continued to be almost entirely professional in character, and the holiday in London and Boston served to restrict to some degree the amount of business, but there was some buying for London account, especially in Louisville and Nashville, while orders to buy New England were for Boston, and the statement of the Union Pacific of its business for the past year was regarded in an unfavorable light, as it showed a decrease in the earning power of the company, and the hope of dividends seem more remote than for a long time. This showing weakened the stock, and in the active list it was a special weak spot, but had plenty of company among the low prices of the shares, and Short Line dropped over 4 per cent, and Hocking Valley was equally weak at one time. The decreased earnings of the company was the primary cause of the slump, inducing sales of long stock, but the old rumor of a default in the June interest was revived, and, until the president stated that the money was already earned and would be paid promptly, the decline was rapid, but the stock afterward rallied and gained most of the loss. On the other hand, Texas Pacific showed some strength late in the day upon increasing earnings reported, and the Coal stocks, notwithstanding the reports of the depressed condition of the trade, were all higher.

There was considerable selling of Chicago Gas by Chicago speculators, and that stock ran off something over 1 per cent. Louisville and Nashville came to the front after 12 o'clock, and Tennessee Coal also joined the upward movement, everything moving up toward delivery hour. After that time there was considerable realizing, and prices yielded a shade, but the close was quiet and fairly steady, leaving most of the list fractionally higher than last week.

Trading showed some concentration upon a few shares. The important changes were the losses of 3¾ in Short Line, 1½ in Union Pacific, and 1¼ in Chicago Gas, while Tennessee Coal is 2¾ higher, and the sale aggregated 164,000 shares.

Exchange dull and steady at 487½@489½. Money easy at 2@3, closing offered 2½. Subtreasury balances: Coin $152,236,000; currency, $16,666,000. Governments dull but strong; 4s $129½; 4½s 10s. State bonds dull and steady.

Closed easy; sales 94,800 bales.

Local—Market firm; middling 10½c.

NEW ORLEANS, April 20—[Special.]—Glenny & Violett, in their cotton circular, say: In the absence of Liverpool news today New York after opening 4 points better began to decline and continued in that direction closing easy 10 points lower than Saturday and 14 points lower than the highest today. Some realizing there broke the market and later upon advices from New Orleans that the receipts here tomorrow would be 4,800 bales, New York again declined several points, closing as above. We sympathized only partially, closing 8 points lower than the opening of today. There was no foreign market here by merely a natural decline of receipts here. Tomorrow 2,500 bales is expected from Memphis and 2,000 bales from Wesson, Miss., which stock was reported by Bradstreet in February last, so it has practically come into sight already. The balance scattering or next to nothing from plantations Memphis, St. Louis and Augusta are still shipping heavily and reducing their stock rapidly, hence port receipts must be large. Spot markets with hardly a single exception are firm. Unsold cotton here about 75,000 bales or 50,000 less than last year. Spots here are quiet and firm; sales 2,000; middlings 10¼.
GLENNY & VIOLETT.

NEW YORK, April 22.—[Special.]—Hubbard, Price & Co., in their cotton circular, say: Liverpool is still closed and we have no advices from Europe. Our market opened with a firm tone at 4 to 5 points in advance this morning, but the presence of realizing orders was soon manifest. The market declined, closing barely steady at the lowest prices of the day, and a loss from the opening of 14 points. This decline appears to have been a natural reaction after Saturday's advance, and due to heavy realizing on the part of the original bulls who have transferred their holdings to the recent purchasers. Mr. Ellison's circular received by this mornings mail, estimates the consumption of American spinners at 120,000 bales in excess of last year, and also states that in making his estimate of 870,000 bales on October 1st, against 446,000 last year, 182,000 bales would be the stock in American ports at the end of August. The short interest in our market has been freely liquidated on the recent advance and we expect a rather quiet market and a recovery from today's drop tomorrow. The future course of the market will depend upon the demand from English spinners. Receipts tomorrow will probably be about 8,000 bales.
HUBBARD, PRICE & CO.

NEW YORK, April 22.—[Special.]—Henry Clews & Co.'s cotton circular on the market today says: The outside orders in cotton at the opening today were principally to buy, and consequently the first prices showed an advance over Saturday night's figures of 3 to 5 points in the early months. There was a decided inclination on the part of our local operators to take profits and they embraced the opportunity offered by the higher market to accomplish it. Liverpool was also a large seller in our market, and the remnant of the bear crowd became somewhat bolder and hammered persistently. The combination of the circumstances, together with stop orders being reached, caused prices to recede 12 to 15 points from the highest reached and at that the market was easy, the early months showing a decline of 9 to 10 points, while the latter months are down 4 to 7 points. The position of cotton is strong, and not only do we believe that it will prevent much more reaction, but we are convinced that in the end it will result in considerable higher prices. We have had a drop of 15 points, and it seems near time to buy again. The southern markets are all firm and show an unimpaired demand for cotton. Receipts today 4,227 bales. The outlook for the next crop is very promising and the opportunity is exceedingly promising, and the opportunity should present shortly for selling to advantage against Guama cotton. JOHN S. ERNEST.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Good business was transacted in wheat, but it was chiefly of a local character and credited to some of the large floor operators. The market opened weak and declined 3c for May and June and 1¼c for July, closing about 2c lower for May and June and ⅛c lower for July than the closing figures of Saturday.

Only a moderate business was transacted in corn fluctuations being limited to ¼c range.

A weak and unsettled feeling was developed in oats and prices ranged lower and closed quiet.

Hog products attracted very little attention and the trading was light. At the opening the market was easier. Later, however the feeling was weaker again with light trading and prices declined on all leading articles.

The following was the range in the leading futures of Chicago today:

A ROLLING MILL

PROMISED FOR ATLANTA IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

A Party of Rolling Mill Men in the City to Locate a Big Industry—They Will Go Before the Manufacturers' Association.

Atlanta will have another rolling mill within the next few months and it will be a big one.

The prospectors are from the east.

For several days past the gentlemen have been in the city examining sites and have about selected one upon which they are now bidding. The lot is a large one and has a long railroad frontage and will be covered with buildings if the trade is consumated.

The mill will employ several hundred hands and will soon after its location become one of Atlanta's most important industries. One of the gentleman interested in the venture yesterday said:

"Our mill is now in operation, but we will be compelled to leave our present site in a few months. Then we will have to buy land, and we think we can do better in bringing the mill to Atlanta than in buying where we are."

"Then you like Atlanta?"

"Very much indeed. We have been assured that our ground would cost us very little, and that our machinery would be moved for nothing."

"How about your material?"

"We can get our iron here just as cheap as we want it. There are coal beds all around us, and I know that coal is much cheaper here than where we are. In fact, this is the best location I know of."

"How many men will you employ?"

"At first six hundred to seven hundred, and later on a thousand. We will bring four hundred trained men with us."

"When will you begin work here?"

"That I can't tell exactly, but between now and September 1st. I am going before the Atlanta Manufacturers' association tomorrow afternoon and then I'll be able to tell you more definitely."

Card of Thanks.

April 22d, 1889.—Editors Constitution: Permit me, through your columns, to thank my many friends for their assistance, and offers of the use of their offices, until I could get located. The fire might have been worse, so far as I am concerned, in that the books and papers in my safe were perfectly preserved, and many other papers were saved which I thought would be lost.

I have rented an office in the Peters' building, over Hughes & Laws', on Peachtree street, and will tomorrow open there for business. Very respectfully, FORMER KING.

At the Y. M. C. A.

Miss Emma Hahr, Atlanta's talented and distinguished artist, will give a piano recital Friday evening April 26th, at Y. M. C. A. hall. Miss Hahr is unquestionably the finest pianist in this section, having the benefit of the training of the best foreign masters. Her selections will be of the very finest order and will include one or two numbers from Beethoven never before rendered in this city. Miss Hahr will have the able assistance of Mr. Blumenfeld, a violinist of exceptional skill, and Mr. Earle A. Willey, a versatile, humorous and dramatic reader. Members on presentation of membership ticket admitted free. General admission 50c.

The court adjourned to Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

THE well known strengthening properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

Horrid Torture.

This is often felt in every joint and muscle of the body by turns, by people who, experiencing the earliest twinges of rheumatism, neglect to arrest the malady, as they may easily do, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a professionally authenticated remedy for the agonizing complaint. Recollect that rheumatism unchecked lasts a lifetime, or abruptly terminates it when the malady attacks the heart. The Bitters also remedies chills and fever, dyspepsia and liver complaint.

Beecham's Pills cure bilious and nervous ills.

MR. S. M. SOLOMON, Macon, Ga., says: I have had occasion to use Bradycrotine twice, and each time the pain was relieved in ten minutes.

A Beautiful Easter Gift.

Scott & Bowne, manufacturers of the well known Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, offer a most beautiful Easter gift—composed of eight artistic studies of Birds and Flowers, put up in portfolio—worth at least $2.00, for 25 cents. On receipt of above in stamps, it will be mailed at once.

NEEDLES AND POETRY.

An Enterprising Yankee Who Makes One in England, the Other in America.

A yankee? That he is, and one in whom is found all the push and energy and enterprise which is popularly believed to belong to the typical yankee. You would think him an Englishman from his business, for he owns one of the large manufacturing establishments of England; but he not only is not that, but he has never been in England, and has never seen his factory.

This is Mr. Oliver Howard Blood, the inventor of Blood's patent helix needles.

"I drifted into the needle business," he said to a CONSTITUTION representative, "merely through a desire to see the country. I thought I could do something by importing needles direct. I began on a small scale, but have made money and now own the largest factory at Redditch, England. Last year my business amounted to over $300,000. I get around the country a good deal and when I want to get off a good thing on my needles, I talk this way."

And he said:

"We keep an eye on the business!
Look out for all the 'points,'
Never get out of 'temper,'
Like things to work 'smooth,'
Always keep 'straight,'
Never do anything 'crooked,'
Never bend or break,
Never get stuck unless 'cloth' stuck,
Know no one to steal my joke,
Always draw good blood,
Some say 'helix' them all!
Its perfectly 'needless' to say more

"And here is a piece of poetry which I wrote myself," he continued, "and printed in a paper some ten years ago. I think it is a beautiful thing, don't you?

"Here it is:

Mr. Blood has acquired riches through the eye of a needle. He is such a good fellow that when he enters heaven:

Through the eye of a needle he'll
Not have to pass,
Though the eye be as great as
Antony was an ass;
The needle's as large as Cleopatra's, the queen,
Peradventure if not, then he'll Invent a new scheme.

"Now, don't you think that a beautiful thing? I do. I think it's worth reproducing." And Mr. Oliver Howard Blood, of Blood's needles, went on to tell of the merits of the useful articles which he manufactures. He will remain in the city several days, and is stopping at the Kimball.

PURE CREAM ICE CREAM.

PREPARE FOR A FEAST, FOR WE ARE NOT YET READY.

This Will Inform You Where to Order Ice Cream From.

We have assumed control of the sale of the famous Nashville Creamery Ice Cream in Atlanta, and we hope to push their business to success. We had the pleasure during the week to meet personally Mr. Robin Jones, who controls the business at the Nashville end, and were fully instructed as to the many improvements that they have made during the past year. Strict discipline, order and scrupulously clean method rule supreme, and could you have heard of the many intricacies covering the business you would be charmed with the knowledge. We are all young enough to learn, and there is not a day we are not taught something. In any event, we will commence delivering the fine fancy quality Pure Cream Ice Cream on May 1st, and all orders will be delivered promptly. In conjunction with the Ice Cream business we will deliver the famous Robin Jones butter that has given such universal satisfaction. If there has ever been any cause for complaint we assure patrons that from a personal contact with the manager we can assure customers that we will only be shipped absolutely first-class butter. We have had cans made which we will pack with ice and deliver the butter firm and fresh. During this week we have sold nearly 1,200 quarts strawberries. We assure patrons that at all times our store will be headquarters for fancy brands of famous strawberries. We will handle the entire crop of two well known growers, whose berries always elicit favor. We also will have fancy red raspberries, and if you want either of the above our store will be headquarters for fancy goods in this line. Remember the Ice Cream. We assure patrons the quality will be superior to any sold in the city, and if at any time our representations are refuted by proof in the shape of a superior quality, then we will yield the palm. But in all events we will be ready on the first of May to deliver this famous fancy quality Ice Cream in porcelain lined cans. HOYT & THORN.

The Women Praise B. B. B.

The suffering of women certainly awakens the sympathy of every true philanthropist. Their best friend, however, is B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm). Send to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for proofs.

H. L. Cassidy, Kennesaw, Ga., writes: "Three bottles of B. B. B. cured my wife of scrofula."

Mrs. R. M. Laws, Zalaba, Fla., writes; "I have never used anything to equal B. B. B."

Mrs. C. H. Gay, Rocky Mount, N. C., writes: "Not a day for, fifteen years was I free from headache. B. B. B. entirely relieved me. I feel like another person."

James W. Lancaster, Hawkinsville, Ga., writes: "My wife was in bad health for eight years. Five doctors and many patent medicines had done her no good. Six bottles of B. B. B. cured her."

Miss S. Tomlinson, Atlanta, Ga., says: "For years I suffered with rheumatism, caused by kidney trouble and indigestion, I also was feeble and nervous. B. B. B. relieved me at once, although several other medicines had failed."

Rev. J. M. Richardson, Clarkston, Ark., writes: "My wife suffered twelve years with rheumatism and female complaint. A lady member of my church had been cured by B. B. B. She persuaded my wife to try it, who now says there is nothing like B. B. B., as it quickly gave her relief."

am Happy to Say I am a Well Woman, an Have Gained 37 Pounds Since I Stopped Taking Morphine.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 16, 1888

DEAR SIR—With much pleasure I am happy to say I am a well woman today, and have gained 37 pounds since I stopped taking morphine. After taking the first dose of your medicine did not want any more morphine, and my friends who saw me a month before I started to taking your medicine do not know me. You have made me a well and hearty woman, and I hope God will bless you and that you may cure all afflicted, for when a woman gets into the habit she had as well be dead. When I left Cedar Keys and came here, and when your medicine gave out I was all right. I wanted to wait and see if I would remain so. Doctor, you can use my name if you wish. I was taking six grains morphine a day. Your obedient servant and sincere friend, JOSEY MARSHALL,

Seven Valuable Lots,
TUESDAY, MAY 7th, at 3:30 O'clock, P. M., on the Southwest Corner of Gilmer and Butler Sts.

MANY ANXIOUS EYES have looked upon this property in the past and yearned for a piece of it, and right well they might, for it is exceedingly valuable for either residence or business purposes. This is the choicest l arge piece of real estate upon the market, so near the center of the city. Street cars, paved streets, gas and water right at it. The opening and paving of Edgewood avenue will attract the rich and fashionable to live upon it, thus enhancing all the property in the fourth ward. Now is the time to buy if you want the benefit of low prices. Easy money causes prices to rule higher. Buy now while it is cheap and in your reach. These lots are just north of the new state capitol, convenient to the union depot, Kimball and Markham houses, churches and schools. Consider your interest and buy one of these lots. In a few years you can double your money. Just consider how steadily real estate has advanced annually, and yet Atlanta is only in her infancy. Thousands of people are calculating upon our city as their future home. Come for plats.

FOR SALE AT AUCTION,
April 30, at 3 O'Clock.
On North Ave., Inman Ave., Linden Ave. and Calhoun Streets.

This property is subdivided for the first time, and this is the first time since the Indians gave up the country that a piece of it could be bought. Come to my office, get a plat and go upon the ground and examine for yourself. You are bound to admit that this location is a very superior one. Just one block from Ponce de Leon avenue, and only a stone's throw from Peachtree street. Here you have street car facilities, elevation, health and magnificent views, both toward the city and the famous Ponce de Leon springs. It is said that this attractive resort is to soon be made to bloom and blossom like a rose. The new street car syndicate is bound to do a great deal for this section of Atlanta. Nerve up, exercise your judgment, take your wife out and go upon the lots, then select the one you want and attend the sale and buy it. You are certain never to regret the purchase. Good real estate in Atlanta never declines. Look at the men who were poor when the war closed that are now rich from buying Atlanta property. Remember, lots near these are selling at from $80 to $100 per foot, yet I offer these at your own bid. Come to the sale and see and be convinced.

THERE'LL BE NO DRILL.

CHARLESTON'S COMPANY CHANGES ITS CHALLENGE.

The Gate City Guard Held an Important Meeting Last Night to Consider the Charleston Matter—The Companies Will Not Meet at Present.

The Gate City Guard will not drill the German Fusileers, of Charleston.

The backdown is not on the part of the Guard, but of the Fusileers.

Since the appearance in THE CONSTITUTION of the original challenge of the Charleston company, there has been no other feeling among the members of the Guard than that it would be accepted. The result was that at the first meeting the company held after the appearance of the Fusileers' challenge, the Guard published a card denying all reports to the effect that they were mistreated by the Charleston company at the Jacksonville drill, and at the same time stating that a formal challenge, based on the same terms as the one published in these columns, would be promptly accepted.

That challenge was that the two companies should drill either in Atlanta or Charleston, for five hundred dollars a side. The choice of ground was left with the Guard, and they selected Atlanta as the place, as it would be more convenient for a great many members of the company who could not get off to attend the drill in Charleston. The Guard also agreed to pay all the expenses of the Charleston company, as they had agreed to do the same for the Guard, provided Charleston was chosen.

The meeting at which the Fusileers' challenge was discussed, and the request made for a more definite and satisfactory agreement was held last Friday night, and the company, thinking that the Fusileers would stand up to their first proposition, had called a special meeting for last night to formally accept and set the date for the drill. Consequently the boys were out in force last night, and their enthusiasm over the contest was unbounded, the universal feeling being that the drill was an assured fact.

When Captain Lyman Hall had called the company to order he took from his pocket a telegram.

The telegram was from the captain of the German Fusileers, of Charleston, and stated that his company had never authorized the publication of the challenge which had been so promptly accepted by the Guard, but that the Fusileers would drill the Gate City Guard provided they came to Charleston and would use exactly the same programme as that used in the Jacksonville drill, and that the same squad be used.

The Charleston company not only required that the guard should go to that city, but insisted that an old and familiar programme be used, a programme which they had had ample time to perfect themselves in.

Now, while the Guard would not object to meeting the Fusileers in Charleston, providing the members of the company could get off to go, they would under no circumstances consent to the use of the Jacksonville programme, which, by the way, was a very easy one.

So after all the talk on both sides, the drill will, in all probability, be declared off, and the two rival companies will have to wait until the 21st of next month, when the interstate drill occurs at Macon, to decide which is the better drilled of the two.

The impression has gone forth that there is bad blood between the Fusileers and the Guard. This is entirely unfounded, for there are probably no two companies in the south between which a more friendly feeling exists, and when they meet it will be on the most cordial terms.

Now is the best time of the whole year to purify your blood, because you are more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at other seasons. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine to take.

All danger of drinking impure water is avoided by adding 20 drops of the genuine Angostura Bitters, manufactured by Dr. Siegert & Sons.

STOP, THIEF!

We published in a recent issue of Sunday's Constitution a copy of a legal paper showing that the name of Palmer, as applied to any blood medicine, was our property by virtue of purchase and registration of name.

We do not claim that the name Palmer enhances the name of our blood purifier either medicinally, morally, or financially. We would fight this imposition in the same manner if any name or article we owned was being infringed upon, be it Smith, Jones, etc., having made the name valuable by our time and money.

Of course, lame excuses and explanations will be offered by the impostors. It matters not to us, neither does it affect the sale of the original PALMER'S BLOOD PURIFIER. Our object is to show up the fraud.

The Marietta street lots to be sold April 23d, at 3:30 o'clock, have a side track in the rear, belgian blocks and street cars in front. See big sign on the premises. H. L. Wilson. sun tu

Easter Cards

To please every one, from 2½c up. Do not fail to see them, at John M. Miller's, 31 Marietta street. tf

Card of Thanks.

We hereby heartily thank our friends, Messrs. Forest Adair, Will Davis and Bob Jones, and also the firemen, respectfully, and any other friends who kindly helped in saving our office furniture and valuables from the fire in the Jackson building on Sunday afternoon. But for their noble efforts we would doubtless have suffered almost total loss. Our thanks are also tendered to Messrs. P. & G. T. Dodd for sheltering and taking care of what we saved, and we very highly appreciate the kindness of all these gentlemen.

We are now in our new office, No. 10 East Alabama street, and will be glad to see all of our customers and friends.

CHOICE
300-LOTS-300
Anniston, Ala.

Anniston's position among the leading cities of the south is already settled; it needs no encomiums or indorsements from us. Situated as it is in the heart of one of the greatest mineral regions of the world, and accessible from every known point, backed by men of brawn, brain and capital and untiring energy, who know "no such word as fail," it commends itself as a city of enterprise, and a place for investment to every intelligent man who has the facts presented to him—so I merely advertise the fact that on Tuesday, April 30, 1889,

At 10 A. M.,

I will sell 300 lots, beautifully located, and as well adapted for homes, manufactories and commercial enterprises, and all other industries, as any property in the south.

For Homes,

The Hygiene is perfect.

For Manufactories,

Every facility is unsurpassed.

For Commerce,

The surrounding country is fertile, and the inhabitants prosperous.

For Small Industries,

Freight and shipping advantages equal to any in the country.

For Investment,

I know of no property that presents such an array of inducements. Magnificent Hotels, Street Cars, Gas, Electric Lights, Water Works, Foundries, Furnaces, Cotton Factories, Churches, Schools, and the United States Rolling Stock company are covering five acres,

NOT ON PAPER,

But on the spot, and can be seen in operation by every visitor.

The dirt that is excavated for the foundation of buildings is 50 Per Cent IRON.

Special excursion rates will be given by the Georgia Pacific railroad, which will be published in a few days.

TERMS OF SALE:

One-third cash; balance in six and twelve months.

For Sale at the Courthouse

—A—

Whitehall Street Store House.

Tuesday, May 7, at 11 O'Clock a. m.

This is strictly central and first-class property—25 feet 5 inches front on Whitehall by 185 feet deep to an alley running back to Pryor street. The store, No. 40, is now occupied by J. M. Alexander & Co. for hardware, and is just in the midst of the most active business portion of the city of Atlanta. If there is any one place more valuable than another, t is in this locality. Remember, it is exceedingly rare that you have the chance to buy central real estate. 'Tis too good generally to turn loose. It is only sold at administrator's sale. Examine the property, take in the surroundings, weigh the many advantages, be at the sale and bid for yourself. The person who buys this store will certainly take it off the market. Then where could you get another at any price?

FOR SALE AT AUCTION!

APRIL 23d, At 3 O'clock P. M.

4 ELEGANT STORE HOUSE LOTS,
FRONTING 28 FEET EACH,

ON MARIETTA STREET, AND RUNNING BACK to sidetrack. This property is opposite the old rolling mill site, which is bound in the nature of things to be used for some great railroad purpose. Victoria street is the only inlet to this grand piece of land. Belgian block and street cars are on Marietta street. This would be an elegant location for an active manufacturing business of any kind, and it is known that manufacturers are invariably seeking locations that way, and no place offers superior advantages to this one. Coal, iron or any other material desired can be placed on this property without extra charge for trackage. Hallman's big machine shops and factory is broad side doing an immense business. This is the last chance to get a vacant lot in this locality. Come and secure plats.

Part of Mr. R. Peters' Estate
FOR SALE
On Ponce de Leon Av.

THESE LOTS ARE ABSOLUTELY PERFECT. They have been sought after many times, but never placed upon the market before. They are just in the midst of elegance and refinement. The views to the north and east are simply grand. The cars pass every few minutes on this 90-foot avenue, giving every facility for communicating with the city, Ponce de Leon springs and Piedmont park. Here is a rare opportunity to secure a building site unsurpassed in Atlanta. The scarcity of such localities will cause these lots to be bought up at once. If you ever expect to get one, now is the time. Plat at my office. H. L. WILSON,
